Middle East Dogfight

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israel and Egypt claimed they shot down two of each other's warplanes Tuesday in the first Israeli-Egyptian dogfight since the Middle East cease-fire began 22 months ago.

The military command in Tel Aviv said its fighters blasted two Egyptian MIG21s out of the sky over the Mediterranean in a noontime air battle. A spokesman reported the Egyptian pilots were sighted parachuting into the sea about 25 miles off the occupied Sinai Desert.

Within hours, a communique broadcast over Cairo radio said Egyptian fighters downed two Israeli Mirage jets near the Egyptian seaside resort of Ras el Bar, about 35 miles west of the Suez Canal.

The Israelis denied Egypt's claim its planes were shot down or had entered Egyptian air space. Cairo's broadcast made no mention of the Israeli claims.

The Egyptian broadcast acknowledged two Egyptian warplanes were hit in the dogfight but did not specify whether they crashed. It said the Israeli's French-designed Mirages plunged into the sea—about 3½ hours later than the crash reported by Tel Aviv.

The Egyptians claimed the Ras el Bar dogfight started when 19 Israeli planes tried to enter Egyptian air space over the mouth of the Nile River. But the military command in Tel Aviv said the dogfight started when an Israeli patrol encountered the Soviet-built Egyptian MIGs over the sea near the Sinai, occupied by Israel since the 1967 war. The command did not pinpoint the dogfight, but the Sinai Desert lies east of Ras el Bar, on the Israeli-held side of the canal.

A military source said MIGs zoomed toward the Israeli air patrol and the Israelis opened fire without waiting for the Egyptians to attack.

"The Egyptians definitely had aggressive intentions," said a senior military source.

The Israeli spokesmen declined to say which side fired the opening round or where the Israeli pilots had first sighted the MIGs. He also refused to specify what type of Israeli warplane made the kills or how many made up the patrol. Most planes in the Israeli air force are American or French-built.

Israel's state radio reported the clash began inside Israeli-held air space. But the state television network said it began over international waters near the Egyptian coastline on the Egyptian side of the Suez Canal.

All the Israeli planes returned safely to their home bases, the Israeli command asserted.

Campaign Salaries

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell is earning $60,000 a year as director of President Nixon's re-election effort, the campaign committee says.

Fifty-seven other staff workers of the Committee to Re-elect the President and its finance affiliates have take-home pay of more than $1,000 a month, campaign committee records filed with the government show. A brother of the President is among them.

Records listing salaries paid during May were among those filed June 10 by the Nixon group in accordance with the new federal campaign finance disclosure act.

Mitchell, who resigned as attorney general to head the re-election effort, was paid $5,376 in May, after taxes. A committee spokesman said at first that all the May figures represented one month's salary. Later, however, he said Mitchell's was for more than a month's work and that the campaign director was being paid at the rate of $60,000 a year rather than a near-$100,000 salary that the May paycheck had implied.

The spokesman said all the other May payments were for one month's work after deductions for income and Social Security taxes.

Paul W. Kayser, campaign director for business and industry, ranked second in the May salary list at $4,810. Kayser was a vice president and director of industrial relations for PepsiCo.

Ten other staffers are receiving more than $2,000 per month take-home pay according to the record. Edward C. Nixon of Lynwood, Wash., the President's brother, got $1,807 in May as "director-citizens."

Irish Peace Offer

BELFAST (AP) — Britain's top administrator in Northern Ireland Tuesday night turned down an offer from the militant wing of the Irish Republican Army for a seven-day cease-fire in return for peace talks. He said he could not "respond to ultimatums from terrorists."

As the offer from the IRA Provisional wing was made, violence raged across Belfast. A series of bus hijackings and burglaries threw the city into chaos. A 12-year-old girl was critically wounded when caught in a gun fight between guerrillas and British troops.

The offer hinged on British acceptance of the key demands of the guerrilla organization, including an end to arrests and arms searches. And it warned that if the British refused the offer, the only alternative was an intensified campaign of violence.

William Whitelaw, British secretary of state in Northern Ireland, rejected the offer.

The IRA's cease-fire bid was unveiled to newsmen at a secret meeting place inside the barricaded area of Londonderry. At the meeting were the IRA's chief of staff, English-born Sean MacStiofain, and David O'Connell, believed his top lieutenant.

The leaders said they were formally inviting Whitelaw to meet them inside barricaded "Free Derry" with a guarantee of safe conduct.

The aim of the meeting, they said, would be to discuss the IRA's peace terms.

Alternatively they offered to meet Whitelaw at a place of his choosing if they were given a guarantee of safe conduct.

The cease-fire would have become effective at 5 p.m. Thursday if the terms were accepted.

As the offer was issued, Whitelaw was talking with militant Protestant leaders who threaten to paralyze the province next weekend unless he orders a crackdown on the Catholic-based IRA, which wants to unite Northern Ireland and the Irish republic.

Plan Social Security Increase Anticipate Tax Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee finished work Tuesday on a mammoth bill to increase Social Security benefits 10 per cent and fix tough new work-or-else requirements for many welfare recipients.

The Social Security boost for 27.8 million Americans would apply to the retirement, survivor and disability programs.

It would be retroactive to June 1 but probably would not be reflected in monthly checks until next fall.

To pay for it, the committee fixed new higher payroll tax schedules. These would mean a $113.40 tax hike next year for a person who earns at least $10,200 and the same for his employer, as compared with the 1972 bite.

The $17.6 billion bill also would:

- Give many special Social Security benefits to various groups of recipients, including widows, the disabled, and persons who work beyond 65.
- Increase monthly payments substantially for nearly all the 3 million aged, blind and disabled on the welfare rolls.
- Tighten regulations sharply for the 11 million recipients on the largest welfare program, covering families with dependent children.
- Establish controls in an effort to cut back the costs of the

McClellan Gets Another Try

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan won nomination to a sixth term Tuesday in Arkansas' Democratic runoff election, defeating Rep. David Pryor to survive the most serious threat in his 30-year Senate career.

The 76-year-old McClellan, the fourth senior member of the Senate, defeated the three-term congressman on the basis of almost complete but unofficial returns.

With 2,412 of 2,590 precincts reported, McClellan had 226,946 votes and the 37-year-old Pryor had 212,377. The senator's vote was about 52 per cent of the total.

Victory came to the senator in a race in which he claimed he was fighting "national labor bosses" and "the Eastern wing of the radical-liberal establishment."

The senator will have a Republican opponent for the November general election, but it is expected to be only token opposition.

In winning, McClellan shattered Arkansas political tradition that an Arkansas incumbent forced into a runoff always loses.

Both McClellan and his aides credited the victory to hard work that turned out the McClellan vote Tuesday. The senator said many of his supporters stayed home during the May 30 preferential primary because they felt he was not in any trouble.

McClellan led the ticket in the first primary, two weeks ago, but failed by more than five per cent of the vote to obtain the majority to escape the runoff.

South Dakota Flood Survivors Carry On

RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP) — The first of more than 200 victims of the flood torrents which swept out of the Black Hills last weekend was buried Tuesday, and the death toll was expected to rise as more bodies were pulled from the streams and debris.

For the survivors, the day was a start of efforts to dig out, clean up and rebuild their lives.

The death toll stood at 203 Tuesday night after Civil Defense officials eliminated several names from the list and added others. Not all deletions were explained, but Civil Defense spokesmen said some of those dropped from the death list were still missing.

Anton "Vernie" Ziegler, a retail store department manager, was buried in Fountain View Cemetery with 75 mourners present. Graveside services for victims also were held at Mount Calvary and Black Hills National cemeteries.

The City Council empowered the Army Corps of Engineers to move into the disaster area and begin piling and removing the rubble of more than 700 destroyed homes.

Another 1,000 houses and 300 mobile homes were damaged by the torrents of Rapid Creek, which overflowed its banks and spewed walls of water through 80 city blocks. Damage was estimated at more than $100 million.

Nixon Submits Nuclear-Arms Pacts Kissinger Will Brief Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon submitted his nuclear-arms pacts with the Soviet Union to Congress Tuesday and assured members that they safeguard American security. Then he scheduled an unusual White House session to promote his program with congressional leaders.

He asked about 120 members of five key committees of the Senate and House to join in an "in-depth discussion" Thursday morning on the treaty and agreement which he signed with the Soviet leaders in Moscow on May 26 during the summit conference.

White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said the President will open the session and that his top security adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, will brief the legislators and answer questions on the treaty and agreement that require congressional ratification and approval. The President will not be questioned, Ziegler said.

Ziegler said the aim of the 9 a.m. EDT session in the East Room, is to give members of the important committees the President's thinking on why ratification and approval "will serve the country's interest and the cause of peace."

On previous occasions, the White House has balked at permitting Kissinger to testify before congressional committees but this move, in effect will permit Kissinger to go before the committee members on White House grounds.

Kissinger will be the lone administration spokesman at the session but Secretary of State William P. Rogers, and Gerard Smith, head of the SALT delegation, will testify on Capitol Hill, Ziegler said.

The press spokesman added that formal testimony will begin next Monday on the treaty with Rogers appearing before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Since the broad outlines of the understandings reached at the Strategic Arms Limitations Talks—SALT—had been made known in detail before, attention in the President's message to Congress centered on points of real or potential disagreement remaining between the nuclear powers.

For the first time, Nixon set down for Congress a listing of major points on which the United States and the Soviet Union have expressed their own interpretations of what the accords really mean.

Calling the papers he brought back from Moscow "an important first step in checking the arms race," Nixon said:

"The defense capabilities of the United States are second to none in the world today. I am determined that they shall remain so. The terms of the ABM treaty and interim agreement will permit the United States to take the steps we deem necessary to maintain a strategic posture which protects our vital interests and guarantees our continued security."

The treaty, requiring a two-thirds majority in the Senate for ratification, covers defensive arms. A companion agreement to curb offensive weapons, expiring in five years, is up for approval by both houses through joint resolution which will require simple majorities for adoption.

Effectiveness of the agreement is contingent upon ratification of the treaty.

Arkansas Democrat J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said hearings on the documents will begin perhaps as early as Thursday but no later than next Monday.

Some skeptics have said the Moscow settlements might place the United States at a military disadvantage. Nixon said, however, that if his executive agreement to limit strategic offensive arms is not followed by a broader treaty or other accord within five years, it would constitute a basic withdrawal from the ABM (defensive) treaty "should U.S. national interests be jeopardized."

Either country can repudiate the ABM treaty on six months' notice.

In the paper Nixon submitted, the Soviet Union the United States were to be far apart on the issue of modern submarine missiles to third countries. Officially U.S. allies in West Europe—that could be launch strategic missiles.

The Soviet government quoted as taking the should members of the Atlantic Treaty Organization increase their up-to-date within the five-year period the executive agreement. The Soviet Union will have to a corresponding number of the

The United States that it "does not intend to that statement."

Laser-Guided Bombs Score In Viet Again

SAIGON (AP) — American flyers using laser-guided bombs brought down two railroad bridges in North Vietnam close to the Chinese frontier and blasted eight more bridges and two fuel depots elsewhere in the country, U.S. military spokesmen said Tuesday.

The attacks Monday on the pair of bridges on Hanoi's northeast rail line to China marked the second day of strikes within 25 miles of the Chinese border. The bridges 55 and 60 miles northeast of the North Vietnamese capital were knocked out just hours before Peking warned the U.S. raids constituted "grave provocations" against China. Air Force F4 Phantoms hit the previously unscathed bridges with 2,000-pound bombs guided by laser beams.

Air Force, Marine and Navy fighter-bombers flew 290 strikes over the North Monday and damaged or destroyed two fuel depots within three miles of the port city of Vinh. The U.S. Command announced. American pilots also hit eight other bridges, including one under construction 26 miles northwest of Haiphong, the command said.

U.S. B52 bombers pounded enemy supply dumps near the North Vietnamese port city of Dong Hoi Tuesday for the sixth straight day. The raids 21 to 60 miles northwest of the demilitarized zone were aimed at destroying war supplies destined for use by enemy troops in the South.

Hanoi's official Vietnam News Agency claimed the North Vietnamese air force shot down two U.S. F4 fighter-bombers over the North on Tuesday and captured several American pilots. The U.S. Command did not report any losses.

Ground action was relatively light in South Vietnam and little progress toward breaking the 68-day siege at An Loc was reported. Refugees fleeing the provincial capital 60 miles north of Saigon came under enemy fire and a government relief force remained stalled outside the devastated town.

North Vietnamese troops along Highway 13 fired on a column of 1,000 civilians moving south, killing 5 to 10 refugees and wounding 30 to 40.

Allied officers predicted the rubber plantation town, which once had a population of 25,000 to 30,000, may be under firm government control by the weekend. But they added Highway 13, the only overland route to An Loc, must be opened and secured before the siege can be considered over. The city has been cleared of resistance except for some pockets of enemy forces in the northern half, field sources said.

Allied officers estimate only a handful of enemy troops are trying up the drive northward to An Loc on Highway 13.

In Saigon, analysts said there were indications the policy-making Central Committee of Hanoi's Communist party has decided to continue the 11-week offensive despite the U.S. bombing and mining of North Vietnamese harbors.

The finding was based on several articles carried by Nhan Dan, the official party newspaper, and a communique issued last weekend by Hanoi's Council of Ministers, which said North Vietnam was on a "war footing." The war policy decisions were believed to have been made at a meeting of the party's Central Committee last month.

Youth Eruptions Never Anti-Red

A bumper sticker a few years back advised anyone who read it to "Support mental health or I will kill you."

Today, a specter is haunting the earth whose motto seems to be, "Support the revolution against imperialism and oppression or we will kidnap you or shoot you or blow you up."

The slaughter of 26 innocent travelers at the Tel Aviv airport in Israel by three Japanese "United Red Army" terrorists, who reportedly were recruited by Palestinian guerrillas in Lebanon, has moved a sober newspaper like the National Observer to ask seriously:

"Is there a conspiracy of radical, youthful, terrorist organizations spreading its explosive roots around the world?"

The evidence is accumulating and begins to worry even those who are not particularly conspiracy-minded. Some kind of insanity is rampant, infecting young people, mostly males, mostly in their 20s.

In West Germany, police recently captured two ringleaders of the leftist-anarchist, bomb-planting "Red Army Faction," which also has connections with the Palestinians and with similar groups in Italy and France.

Uruguay has its murderous Tupamaro guerrillas. Iranian radicals exploded bombs in Teheran during President Nixon's visit. America has its Weathermen and other radical groups, who so far fortunately have confined their destructiveness to property.

Hardly a country in the world does not have factions of young people proclaiming themselves Maoists or Leninists or Guevarists and preaching the violent overthrow of all existing governments—except Communist dictatorships.

Who can explain it? Has radioactive fallout from atom bomb tests destroyed the brain cells of an entire generation?

Maybe we should have supported mental health.

By FRANK ELEAZER
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Some lawmakers think the public has a distorted view of Congress. Well, wait until they enclose the galleries.

Under a plan presented to House members this week visitors soon could be watching their representatives through 1 1/4 inches of glass. And, from their elevated seats, at a considerable angle besides.

A similar Senate proposal awaits action by its Rules Committee.

The ostensible reason for shutting off the intimate public contact that Congress has tolerated for 180 years is to make possible some spoken guidance for the visitor as to what is taking place on the floor.

Protection Is Motive

Granted that this merits considerable explanation.

A typical Senate session, as observed from above, appears to consist of a senator mulling to himself and a clutter of clerks. The House in session could be mistaken sometimes for an asylum run by its inmates.

So when the House voted a couple of years ago to set up a committee to glass in the galleries the announced aim was to let attendants offer continuing lectures to visitors on what all the fuss is about. The real motive of course wasn't so much to benefit the spectators as to protect the lawmakers. Some members came right out and admitted as much.

It would appear more and more that the natives are restless. Somebody is forever bringing his protest to Capitol Hill. Generally the complaints are delivered in a moderate manner.

Bullet-Proof Shield

But last year some deranged person planted a bomb in a Capitol washroom. And this year, dissatisfaction has been repeatedly voiced in loud shouts and cries from the galleries.

That makes the members uneasy. Those who were here in 1954 still like to point to bullet holes in the ceiling and woodwork where Puerto Rican fanatics shot up the House, seriously wounding five members.

A plan unveiled this week by Capitol architect George White calls for installation of a bullet-proof shield around all the House gallery except for the press benches over and behind the speaker.

Plate glass panels 1 1/4 inches thick would rise eight feet from the front gallery rail. Above that, and reaching the ceiling, would be thinner glass tough enough to stop anything a disgruntled visitor might loft onto the heads of the members.

Protests Not Heard

The whole thing would be held in place by oversize mullions of bronze.

Speakers would then be installed in the glassed-off areas through which the public could hear all the words formally spoken—that is, those deliberately said into a mike on the floor.

The general roar of floor conversation wouldn't get through. More important, nothing uttered in the galleries could be heard on the floor—neither the baby's cries, the lobbyist's whispers, nor the protester's shouts.

Estimated cost of the glass installation is about $400,000—plus $100,000 or so for the audio system. A taxpayer with any complaint about this presumably could still write a letter.

Nonsensical Comparison

When President Nixon returned from Moscow talking of what had been done for peace, some addipated commentators drew invidious comparisons with Neville Chamberlain's return from Munich in 1940. The comparison is nonsensical, and grossly insulting to a President who has helped to fashion a notable advance toward better U.S.-Soviet relations and world peace.

Whatever similarities exist between the two events are superficial. The striking difference becomes apparent when one reconsiders that most discreditable episode in British history, Prime Minister Chamberlain's pact with Adolf Hitler. This tossed to him Britain's treaty-bound ally, Czechoslovakia, in return for supposed Nazi friendship—and thus made Munich a synonym for betrayal. Upon his return to England Chamberlain declared, "I have brought back peace with honor, peace for our time." Soon the Nazi conquest of Denmark and Norway belied his simple-minded optimism.

In Parliament a former supporter rose to apply to him Oliver Cromwell's denunciation of a slavish House of Commons: "You have stayed here too long for any good you have been doing. Depart, I say, and let us have done with you. In the name of God, go!" This onslaught brought down Chamberlain and paved the way for Winston Churchill, who proved to be the nemesis of Hitler and his Nazi power.

Basic Look At School Financing

When it comes to far-reaching judicial decisions, consider the one that the Supreme Court will hand down next year with regard to the financing of public schools. The court has agreed to rule on the question, already confronted by a number of state courts, whether reliance on local property taxes to finance public schools violates the Constitution. However it rules, the impact will be felt profoundly throughout the country.

This will be especially true, of course, if the court should declare property tax financing unconstitutional. If recent decisions in state courts are any indication, the Supreme Court seems likely to do just that.

The first ruling of this kind came in California, where that state's Supreme Court laid down the dictum that such financing was unconstitutional because it discriminated between rich and poor school districts. When a federal court in Texas ruled similarly last December, the state appealed. It is on the basis of this appeal, in which several other states have joined, that the Supreme Court has undertaken to decide the question.

Formidable issues are at stake. Public school financing would have to be fundamentally restructured were the court to find, as lesser courts already have found, that present methods unjustly discriminate against pupils in some school districts.

Democrat Governors:

If It's McGovern, Well, McGovern

By BRUCE BOSSAT
HOUSTON (NEA)—You don't find much enthusiasm here among the nation's Democratic governors for the front-running presidential candidacy of Sen. George McGovern. But only the most naive politically imagines he can be stopped short of nomination.

Most of them know a rushing trend when they see one. An aura of inevitability has begun to envelop the McGovern candidacy, and it is being accepted by these governors—as well as by many other state party officials with whom I talk by telephone.

In recent times, Republican governors, who were in Houston in joint conference with their Democratic colleagues, have tended to be dreamier. They thought they could quickly whistle up a movement in 1964 to lock the GOP nomination of Sen. Barry Goldwater. Some had the same idea about Richard Nixon in 1968.

What they lacked, as do the Democrats today, were the three chief ingredients required for success in such an effort—time, a plausible alternative candidate on whom the "stoppers" can focus, and a real head-knocking commander to put the whole thing together.

With the Democrats convening just a month from now in Miami Beach, the shortness of time is obvious.

If McGovern's main rival, Sen. Hubert Humphrey, continues his slippage in the next two weeks, a quest for a suitable substitute probably would prove futile. With Sen. Edward Kennedy truly on the shelf after the shooting down of Gov. George Wallace dramatized Kennedy's own peril, there are no alluring prospects.

The man most Democratic governors like best is the one many of them endorsed in the first place—Sen. Edmund Muskie. His candidacy, backed by a certain modest delegate strength, is still technically alive. But it simply can't be forgotten that he lost four of the six primaries he contested, and got miserably low vote percentages in two of those—Florida and Wisconsin. Furthermore, late checks show that his delegate base is still shrinking and may soon be embarrassingly low.

Even if they had a good horse, the Democratic governors don't have a commanding leader. A large number are fairly new at their jobs, and while often young, attractive, and perhaps politically skillful in their own realms, they have no general clout with their colleagues.

Newcomer types like Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia and Gov. Wendell Ford of Kentucky surfaced and died quickly as anti-McGovern organizers. The most seasoned governors, Calvin Rampton of Utah and Warren Hearnes of Missouri, couldn't get together a squad of their fellows, let alone a platform.

Gov. Milton Sharp of Pennsylvania put his finger on the incapable flaw in "stop" efforts. A political party looks both foolish and unfair if it tries to block a candidate who has done what contenders always are told they must do—submit to the testing fires of the primaries and emerge successful.

This is a particular dilemma for the Democrats in 1972. They have been busy reforming their nominating process to make it more open and more balanced. To argue that the product of the altered process, George McGovern, should now be blocked by old-style sandbagging is to cast suspicion on the sincerity of the reform movement.

So, McGovern, with his sweeping ideas about defense cuts, tax reform, welfare revision and such, may not be to the taste of most Democratic governors. But here in Houston they grudgingly learned to live with the prospect that he is going to be their guy.

Ann Landers:

Do Card Games Make People Obnoxious?

Dear Ann Landers: You probably won't print this letter because it has no interest for people who don't play bridge, but I'm taking a chance anyway.

First let me tell you, Ann, I'm exactly your age. I don't think that's too old to learn, do you? At any rate I've been trying to improve my bridge game. What bothers me is the "always-never" authorities who say, "Always do this — and never do that." When I ask them on what page of what bridge book I can find the information, they can't tell me. After I go home and look up the points they were instructing me on I discover THEY were wrong and I was right. By then it's too late to win the argument. The next time we play it's the same story. "Always bid this . . . never play that . . ."

Are all bridge players naturally obnoxious, or does the game make them that way? Do card games bring out the worst in people? What's your experience?—52 Tickets To Irritation

Dear 52: I'm no card player so I can't speak from experience, but, if playing cards makes people seem obnoxious, I suggest you throw in the deck, for good. You probably come across the same way to them.

Dear Ann Landers: Why are parents so evil-minded? Why do they always think the worst? Here's my story and please tell me what you think.

Last night my boyfriend came over and my parents were watching some dumb thing on TV. We decided to go to my sister's room and listen to records. Well, we were just lying on the bed holding hands when my dad happened to walk by and see us. He got very mad and told us to get downstairs right away. He kept mumbling things under his breath and the more he mumbled the madder he got. Finally, he said, "I don't want to see that guy around here any more." He meant it.

What did we do wrong? Is it so horrible to hold hands with someone you love?—D.P.

Dear D.P.: I'm sure your dad did not object to your holding hands. If you had been sitting on the sofa he probably would not have said a word. What he DIDN'T like was the fact that you two were lying in bed together, and I go along with him.

But I do hope he will reconsider and not bar the guy from your house. In exchange for this reversal, promise to stay out of the bedroom and remain vertical. And don't tell me if kids want to do something they can manage in the kitchen, the car, or a phone booth. I've heard all those answers. Use your smarts and don't make trouble for yourselves.

Dear Ann Landers: I was married on Thanksgiving eve. The marriage lasted less than two months. My husband simply walked out one day, said I was boring and that he'd rather live with his folks. I was in a blue funk for weeks and am just now beginning to come back to life and think straight.

Please tell me what should be done with the wedding gifts? Of course some of the appliances, sheets and towels have been used. A close friend hinted that perhaps I should return the unused gifts which came from his relatives. Is it expected? Is it proper? Please advise me. I am—Uninformed

Dear U.: It is neither proper nor expected that a bride return the wedding gifts if the marriage doesn't stick. Forget the hint. It's a bummer.

Law For Today

Q. My grandparents own a farm and are talking about adopting their hired hand, a man in his forties. I thought you only could adopt a child. Is this possible?

A. Yes, Illinois law states that provided all regular adoption conditions are met, an adult may be adopted, too, but with one further condition. This is that such an adult must either have resided in the home of the persons intending to adopt him for more than two years continuously preceding beginning of the adoption proceedings; or be related to the persons intending to adopt him. The Illinois Adoption Code defines what is meant by "related."

Timely Quotes

Perhaps a crude justice will come when a term paper executive looks up from the operating table to see one of his better customers approaching dressed in surgeons' gown, scalpel in hand.

AMATEUR BOXING at Virginia will be one of the many free attractions during the 3-day annual Virginia Bar-B-Q, June 16-18. Virginia area boxers will be pitted against out of town competition in a series of sixteen matches. There will be trophies presented winners. The competition will be at 1 p.m. Saturday, June 17th, on the Virginia Square. The six contenders from Virginia are pictured above, left to right, Rodney Rademaker, David Owens, John Carson, Mike Carson, Rick Cox and Mark Pate. The public is cordially invited to the three day Bar-B-Q event in Virginia, being held the sixth consecutive year.

Accident Cases State Funds To Train Ambulance Attendants

SPRINGFIELD — Illinois Transportation Secretary William F. Cellini has announced approval of a highway safety project for the City of Jacksonville which provides emergency medical training for ambulance attendants in the area served by Passavant Memorial Hospital.

The project will provide training for attendants of both public and private ambulance services to improve the emergency medical care available to victims of highway mishaps while en route to the hospital.

Costs of the project will be approximately $25,400. On completion of the project, reimbursement will be made to the Passavant Memorial Hospital from funds available to Illinois under provisions of the National Highway Safety Act, Cellini said.

This local project is one of approximately 825 county and municipal projects being conducted as part of the State Highway Safety Program. A number of projects are also being carried out by State agencies under the direction of Governor Richard B. Ogilvie to promote greater highway safety.

Park Board President Will Address Ambuc

William (Bill) Gross, president of Jacksonville park board, will be speaking at the luncheon meeting Wednesday, June 14th, for members and guests of the local Ambuc, to be held at Holiday Inn.

Last week's program was given by LeeRoy Jackson, Jr., on the proposed city government plan for Jacksonville. There were 37 attending the June 7th meeting with Gaylord Swisher with Swisher Realty a guest along with Don Votsmier of Mobile Chemical. Swisher has applied for membership in the Ambuc.

At the meeting the lucky buck went to Jim Flowers and Ron Winger copped the money in the 50-50 drawing. Holley Ash was named Ambuc of the Month, for May and Buford Green was the recipient of the black feather honor.

There will be a Big Hat meeting June 20th at Harold's with new officers to be elected at this time.

The softball team continues to rack up wins, last week besting the Moose team, 12-11. There is no game this Thursday, but a tentative double header set for Sunday afternoon at Bluffs. Full details will be announced at this week's meeting. Players unable to attend the June 14th meeting should call the team manager for details. Next week's game is scheduled with the unbeaten Kiwanis team.

The Amdoes have planned a family social June 22nd at the Holley Ash residence, this social set to follow the usual ballgame, expected to conclude about 7:45 p.m. All Ambucs, Amdoes and family members are invited and asked to provide own hot dogs, buns and a large covered dish, and folding chairs.

ACTOR'S SON ALLEGEDLY DRUGGED, HELD

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Five persons, including a juvenile, have been arrested on extortion and grand theft charges for allegedly drugging the 45-year-old son of actor John Carradine and holding him prisoner for three days in Hollywood-area hotels.

Sheriff's deputies said Richard Carradine told them he met two men at a Hollywood bar late Thursday and, after several drinks, allowed them to drive him home because they persuaded him he was too drunk to drive.

Instead, Carradine said, they took him to a hotel, where they used one of his credit cards to rent a room, and drugged him. The next day, he said they drove him to his bank where he withdrew $500.

Then, he said, they moved him to another hotel where they continued to ply him with drugs.

Meanwhile, Carradine said they took the $500 and used his credit cards to purchase $1,000 in jewelry and clothing.

He told deputies he managed to escape Sunday night when the men guarding him dozed off.

Arrested in the case Sunday night and early Monday were Bill Gamble, 26, and Guy Smith, 24, both of Hollywood; Reginald Lawrence, 21, of Los Angeles; Linda Mae Grandberry, 19, of San Bernardino; and a 17-year-old juvenile whose identity was not disclosed.

The chances of making a gold strike in California today are estimated at less than a thousand to one.

Speed Reading Course To Begin In Jacksonville Area

Arrangements have been made to conduct a 21-hour course in speed reading. The course is open to anyone above the age of 13 and guarantees every graduate a reading speed over 1,000 words per minute and with at least 15 per cent increase in comprehension.

After the seven week program a person can read any average length book in less than an hour and understand it better. In addition to speed reading the course also emphasizes improved study techniques, better test taking skills, and increased concentration and retention abilities.

The course requires a person to attend one class per week on the evening of their choice. For those who would like more information, without obligation to enroll, a series of FREE one-hour orientation lectures have been scheduled.

These meetings are free to the public and the course will be explained in complete detail including entrance requirements, classroom procedures, tuition, class schedule and location. You need to attend only one of the meetings whichever is most convenient for you. These free one-hour orientations will be held as follows:

Thursday, June 15, 7:00 p.m.;
Friday, June 16, 7:00 p.m.;
Saturday, June 17, 10:30 a.m.;
and a final meeting June 17, at 2:00 p.m. Meetings will be held at the YMCA. (ADV.)

Court Sets Bond For Two

Judge John B. Wright appointed the public defender and set bond at $6,000 each for two defendants charged with charges of robbery and battery.

Thomas Elliott, 24, of 221 South East and William Elliott, 29, of 135 Walnut Court both appeared in court on charges stemming from an altercation and robbery in central park last week.

The public defender was appointed to represent both men and they were returned to the county jail pending posting of the required bond.

A third defendant in the case appeared Monday afternoon. State's Attorney Richard Norris asked for dismissal of the same charges for a 17-year-old girl also implicated in the case. Norris said his investigation showed the girl was not directly involved in the incident.

EASY RIDERS TO MEET JUNE 14

The Easy Riders Bicycle club will meet at Duncan Park 6:30 p.m. for the weekly Wednesday evening ride. Mr. and Mrs. William Chipman will be the leaders this week.

The Sunday morning ride will be a short ride to the John Clegg farm. Riders will meet at 6:30 a.m. in Central Park to go out on the Old State Road. Bring food if desired. Coffee will be served by Mrs. Clegg.

The monthly meeting of the club will be a picnic at the Engelbach cabin on Route 104, Tuesday, June 20 6 p.m. For information, call 245-5248.

Total Diet Most Important You May Vary Yolk Intake

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.
Dear Dr. Lamb — I am a vegetarian and don't use meat. Does the American Heart Assn.'s recommendation of limiting your intake of egg yolks to three a week apply to me in this case? I enjoy eggs so much and although I try not to eat two a day, I usually have one, but skip some days, though I prefer not to.

Dear Reader — The recommendation of the American Heart Assn. concerning egg yolks is within context of the total diet plan which they recommend. The biggest reason that egg yolks have been limited is their high content of cholesterol, although they also contain fat.

Most animal products contain some cholesterol. This includes meat, fish, chicken and dairy products, although they contain much less than egg yolks and brains. Vegetables, fruits, cereals (the plant kingdom) do not. A vegetarian who is not eating any other animal products could eat more egg yolks and still not exceed the limit recommended by the American Heart Assn.

A year ago the Inter-Society Commission on Heart Disease suggested that the total daily cholesterol intake should be limited to 300 milligrams, which is a little bit more than the amount of cholesterol in one egg yolk. A vegetarian using no other animal products could use one egg a day and still not exceed the recommended allowance for cholesterol intake.

Of course, there is no limitation on the amount of egg whites that can be used. If you use an egg yolk a day and wish to stay within the recommended cholesterol limit, however, you must also be careful and processed cheese, and moderately limit even fortified skim milk and uncreamed cottage cheese, or buttermilk.

The reason there is so much confusion about cholesterol is that the body normally produces it, just like the body manufactures blood sugar from various food elements including fats and proteins. Cholesterol is a normal substance in the body, but it has a normal or optimal level, just as does the blood sugar. If your blood sugar is too high you may have diabetes. If it is too low you are in trouble. If your cholesterol is too high you increase the likelihood of heart attacks, strokes and senility. The body manufactures cholesterol in the liver and it produces much more cholesterol than is needed in some individuals who are eating excess numbers of calories and particularly excess amounts of saturated fat. A diet low in cholesterol can still cause too much cholesterol in the body. The cholesterol in the blood comes from that manufactured by the body and that in the diet. Manufactured cholesterol enters the intestine from the bile and is mixed with the diet cholesterol. The blood absorbs cholesterol from this mixed pool, that from the liver and that eaten. Clearly, both are important.

Please send your questions and comments to Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Lamb cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Today's hand is what is commonly called a piano. East wins the first trick with the ace of diamonds and plays the five of spades. West takes his queen and plays the ace.

South ruffs and is sure of his contract. He will make an over-trick if he picks up the queen of hearts.

He leads a small heart to dummy's king. In case West shows out he will be able to handle four hearts in the East hand. Both opponents follow and South plays the jack from dummy. East plays low and South should rise with his ace.

South does not bother with any so-called law of symmetry or the fact that his hand and dummy each held a singleton to start with. He should realize that cards are inanimate objects and that his opponents' hearts don't know that his hand and dummy each held a singleton.

What he does know is that all else being equal the odds are about 11 to 10 that the queen will drop. These aren't good odds but they are odds.

Actually, South as better odds with him this time. The opponents hold 20 high card points and eight spades. If either held a singleton heart, he might well have entered the bidding. The fact that he stayed out increases the probability that he will produce the queen of hearts.

I called seldom at the homes of young ladies when I was a teen-ager, and the visits were always as brief as possible. I was shy and tongue-tied in the presence of parents, and felt their unspoken questioning of my evil intentions.

But the young men today who ring my front bell and try to make it sound like a circus callopie are no such social cripples. I envy them their breezy assurance. They have more self-confidence at 18 to 20 than I have at three score and one.

By and large, I like them very much. They dress like the inhabitants of a hobo jungle, but they are all clean. They are noisy, but there isn't a hophthead, weirdo or premature drunk in the lot. And not one of them has ever been lippy with me. This may be because my daughter has warned them all, "I am the daughter of an ogre—please don't give him any excuse to start shedding your blood."

Not one of these young commandos has showed up with a box of candy or bouquet of flowers. Now and then, however, one will arrive with a bouquet of pizza pie.

About half of the boys wear beards, and I call them all "Fuzzy." I asked one of the new bearded ones the other day, "Why did you grow a beard? Are you about to undertake the principal role in the Second Coming?" "No," he answered, "I'm simply traveling incognito this year."

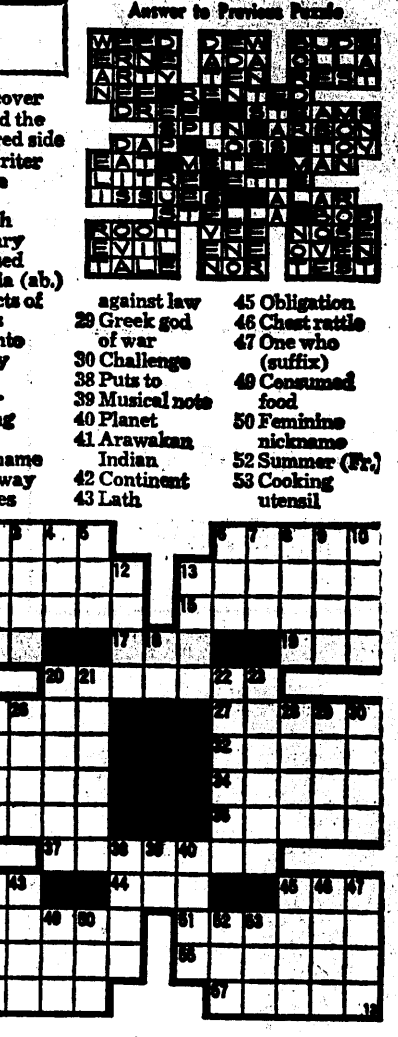

All the clean-shaven ones over six feet tall I call "Jack," because the one I like best falls

Daughter's Suitors Have Dad's Sympathy

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Many fathers of young daughters complain about either the quality or quantity of suitors who come knocking at their doors.

I have no problems on either score.

The suitors—if that's the right word—of my daughter Tracy Ann, who is nearly 19, are far better than this proud father feels she deserves. And as to quantity, they have been stumbling into our apartment like confused moths in limitless numbers since Tracy had her fifth birthday.

They have my sympathy. She treats them as a medieval Russian empress might treat a clumsy serf. I have always told Tracy that if her husband later wanted to run away from home because of this kind of treatment, I would lend him the money. She doesn't like much to hear me say that.

I called seldom at the homes of young ladies when I was a teen-ager, and the visits were always as brief as possible. I was shy and tongue-tied in the presence of parents, and felt their unspoken questioning of my evil intentions.

But the young men today who ring my front bell and try to make it sound like a circus callopie are no such social cripples. I envy them their breezy assurance. They have more self-confidence at 18 to 20 than I have at three score and one.

By and large, I like them very much. They dress like the inhabitants of a hobo jungle, but they are all clean. They are noisy, but there isn't a hophthead, weirdo or premature drunk in the lot. And not one of them has ever been lippy with me. This may be because my daughter has warned them all, "I am the daughter of an ogre—please don't give him any excuse to start shedding your blood."

Not one of these young commandos has showed up with a box of candy or bouquet of flowers. Now and then, however, one will arrive with a bouquet of pizza pie.

About half of the boys wear beards, and I call them all "Fuzzy." I asked one of the new bearded ones the other day, "Why did you grow a beard? Are you about to undertake the principal role in the Second Coming?" "No," he answered, "I'm simply traveling incognito this year."

All the clean-shaven ones over six feet tall I call "Jack," because the one I like best falls in that category. "Why do you call the others by Jack's name—it's not fair," said Tracy.

"Because he returns my neckties he borrows, is too big to wear my shirts, and gives me cigars for Christmas," I told her.

I secretly would like to have Jack for a son-in-law, but feel guilty about it. What responsible grown man would wish on a fine, upstanding, good-hearted boy like Jack a fate like that? After all, what kind of daughters do ogres have?

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 14 — Born today, you are an astute observer of the human scene. Able to read people's natures with a high degree of accuracy even after a first meeting, you are able to assess the human drama in whatever situation you find yourself, even should you enter upon it well after its inception. It does not take you long to discover whether or not you are going to be able to establish friendly relations with any given person; you are able to uncover almost immediately even those hidden traits which give another away and can therefore make up your mind quickly.

Your judgmental facilities are extremely well developed. These, in conjunction with a razor-sharp sense of humor, make you a prime candidate for a career as a critic. You must, however, take care that the criticism you deliver yourself of, even in a professional way, is of a constructive nature, for if you use your wit and your judgment merely to tear down, you can bring heartache upon others and revenge upon yourself.

You have tremendous physical energy and as a result tend to overwork. Disinclined to take the normal coffee-breaks, you think yourself strong enough to work a day through without any rest periods, and may therefore be surprised to find that the long hours eventually catch up with you. Like many born under the sign of Gemini, however, you will probably make the same mistake over and over again—and be ever again surprised at the results.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Thursday, June 15
GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—A fresh idea will be worth more to the advancement than any number of personal recommendations. Let higher-ups experience the originality of your mind.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—General information will take you a long way today in your efforts to come up to another's standards. Refresh your memory periodically.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—Another's bluff must not be allowed to put you off your course. Stick to your own view of the how and why of things and you can't go wrong.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—The straightforward approach will carry you far today as you attempt to reclaim a lost relationship. Don't hesitate to accept most of the blame.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—Employ your ability to override obstacles. You may find yourself behind more than one eight-ball before the day is over.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—Though you may think yourself impervious to another's influence, you are very likely to fall under a loved one's spell today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—Your pleasing personality does more to gain you entry into a sphere of society you've been hoping to crack than anything else. Take advantage of it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 21)—Since others will probably want to follow your lead today, make sure that where you're going is where you would want others to find you. Discipline yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—Recognize in another those qualities which you admire. If you look only for those facets of personality you can criticize, that's all you'll find.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21)—An opportunity for advancement may come your way this morning—but you would be wise to think twice before deciding one way or the other about it.

ARIES (March 22-April 20)—Encourage the young to make full use of their talents. These are days when you can do much to start young people on the road to artistic satisfaction.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—Although you may have gained a reputation for being the champion of original thought, you might be wise to seek old paths to success at this time.

DOSH TEACHERS ATTEND CARTHAGE SUMMER INSTITUTE
MEREDOSIA — The staff of the Region III Area Service Center for the Illinois Gifted Program, located in Carthage, for the past two years has been and continues to work with students and teachers training them to help students develop their special abilities. This program serves a 17 county area.

Summer institutes for classroom teachers dealing with individualized instruction are currently being held. The following teachers from the Meredosia-Chambersburg School Unit are attending the three-week session at Carthage High School: Barbara Miller, James Henderson and Hazel Blake.

Other participants are from Hancock County, Camp Point, Bushnell-Prairie City, Colchester, Pittsfield, Kewanee and Blandenville.

Polly's Pointers

Fancy Boxes Marred By Price Mark Stamps

By POLLY CRAMER

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY — A little over a year ago, we purchased an expensive living room sofa and chair covered with imitation leopard fur and it was the most beautiful set we have ever seen, but now it is dirty and dull-looking and I have no idea how to clean it. The store where we bought the set said the factory sent no cleaning instructions. Can someone please help me?—DENISE

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with supermarket clerks who stamp the price marker right on the top of a nice decorator box of facial tissues. The manufacturer goes to all the trouble of making a pretty unmarked box, so it seems the least the marking clerks could do is to stamp them on the bottom.—CARLA

DEAR POLLY—I want to tell Mrs. A.S. who has some double-knit polyester pants with shiny marks left from ironing, to sponge these marks with white vinegar. I have just used this on a polyester dress and it worked beautifully, with not a trace of shine left. First try the vinegar on the underneath side of the bottom of a cuff to test the effect of that particular material.—MRS. A.R.C.

DEAR POLLY—Next time you are taking apart some object that has many little parts, bolts or screws that are always being lost on the floor, save time and searching by placing them on a strip of masking tape as they are removed, thus avoiding loss and trouble.—RUTH

DEAR POLLY—A rolling platform attached to a straight dining-type chair can make a hard task effortless for a person who is not able to lift his own weight from a chair to shove it easily under a dining table.

Such a chair can wheel anywhere in the home with another person pushing on the back.

Cut two pieces of one-by-four-inch boards so they are one-half inch longer than the distance from the front to the rear of the chair legs. Cut a piece of one-fourth-inch plywood one inch longer than the outside distance of the four legs. Drill two one-fourth-inch holes in the two-by-fours and screw the bottom of the chair legs to them with 1½-inch screws. Drill a one-fourth-inch hole in each corner of the plywood and screw narrow boards, with the attached chair, to this platform. Buy a set of rollers, such as used for furniture dollies, adjust to exact length of platform from front to back of chair and then bolt to each side. Drill one-fourth-inch holes through the metal for the bolts, after first checking to be sure the bolts will not interfere with the two sets of screws already in the platform.—K.F.B.

2 cups unsifted flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon cloves
2 teaspoons cinnamon
½ cup dark molasses
¼ cup sugar
6 tablespoons butter, soft
1 tablespoon milk
On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour, baking powder, salt, nutmeg, cloves and cinnamon. In a heavy 1½-quart saucepan gently heat the molasses until it is about to boil; remove from heat. Stir in the sugar and butter until blended; add milk and flour mixture and stir again until blended. Chill. On 2 sheets of foil shape dough into two 3-by-2-inch rectangles and wrap tightly in the foil. Chill in refrigerator overnight or in freezer until very firm. With a very sharp knife slice extremely thin. Place fairly close together on greased cookie sheets; bake in a preheated 350-degree oven 10 to 12 minutes. With a wide spatula remove to wire racks to cool. Store in a tightly covered tin box. Makes 6 dozen very thin and crisp cookies.

KAMPSVILLE, Ill. — A crew of more than 100 scientists and students have arrived in Kampsville, Ill., to begin reopening excavations at the Koster archeological site. Kampsville, located on the Illinois River about 50 miles north of St. Louis, is the field headquarters for this expedition and others in the Illinois Valley Archeological program. This program is conducted by the Foundation for Illinois Archeology, directed by Professors Stuart Struever and James Brown of Northwestern University.

Situated just nine miles from Kampsville near the village of Eldred, the Koster site is again open to the public during excavation hours, 6 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. each day except Sunday. On Sundays, excavations will run from 10:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

3 AREA COUNTIES CONSIDER MERGE OF SCHOOL AREAS

BEARDSTOWN — L. Milton McClure, local attorney, has explained to the members of the board of education here that under a new state law all school service regions must have populations of at least 16,000.

By April of 1975 the region must consist of three counties with population of 33,000. A Citizen's committee is now considering with Schuyler and Brown counties the possibility of a merger; also the committee has been in contact with Morgan county on this matter, McClure said.

There are four full-time guides to show visitors the excavations in progress and to answer their questions. The Koster Archeological Museum, Kampsville, in which the most important discoveries from the site will be on display, is open from 9 a.m. through 6 p.m. seven days a week. School groups and organizations wishing to arrange tours may make arrangements by writing the Foundation for Illinois Archeology, 1243 Maple Avenue, Evanston, Illinois, 60202 or to Prof. Stuart Struever, Kampsville, Illinois, 62053. ## Aaron's Homer Tops Mets 6-5

ATLANTA (AP) — Hank Aaron belted a one-out home run off reliever Danny Frisella, giving the Atlanta Braves a comeback 6-5 victory in the 10th inning over the New York Mets Tuesday night.

Aaron's 600th career home run, putting him two ahead of the Mets' Willie Mays among baseball's best active home hitters, landed in deep left center field of Atlanta Stadium and capped a wild comeback for the Braves.

For the second night in a row, the Braves utilized a crucial Met error in the eighth inning to help pull out a game.

New York had a 5-2 lead going into the eighth when Tommie Agee dropped a fly ball for the second straight night in center field, opening the door for three Atlanta runs that tied the game.

Dusty Baker's two-run triple capped the rally. However, Baker then was thrown out by pitcher Tom Seaver on an attempted steal of home.

It was a jolt for Seaver, who failed to finish a start for the ninth straight time.

The Atlanta rally wiped out a 5-2 Met lead built on the long ball.

The Mets wiped out an early 2-1 Atlanta lead with Duffy Dyer's two-run homer in the sixth inning, then scored two more runs in the seventh on solo shots by Seaver, the third of his career, and Ken Boswell.

Thompson Top Pick In ABA Expansion Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — Guard George Thompson of the Pittsburgh Condors was picked by the Memphis Pros as the No. 1 pick in the American Basketball Association dispersal draft Tuesday night.

The off-season draft was brought about when the league eliminated both the Pittsburgh and Florida franchises.

The remaining nine ABA teams selected active players and draft choices from the defunct franchise rosters.

Another guard, Warren Jaball of the Floridians, was the second pick, and was chosen by Denver. Carolina followed by taking Mike Lewis of Pittsburgh and Dallas grabbed high-scoring John Briskier of the Condors.

The four weakest ABA teams then drafted in reverse order before the stronger teams picked. After selecting Briskier, Dallas had another pick and selected Harley "Skeeter" Swift of Pittsburgh. The next three players chosen came from the Floridians' roster—Mac Calvin to Carolina, Willie Long to Denver and Ron Franz to Memphis.

Then Virginia took Swen Nater, a redshirt who had been drafted by the Floridians. Utah followed by taking Larry Jones of the Floridians and Kentucky took Walt Sczerbiak of Pittsburgh; New York took Chuck Terry of Long Beach State, who had been drafted by the Condors; and Indiana completed the first round by choosing Dwight Davis of the University of Houston, who had been drafted by the Floridians.

Overall, a total of 42 players were selected in the six rounds. Dolph said that for next season the West Division would be the same with Indiana, Utah, Dallas, Denver and Memphis. The East Division would have Carolina, Kentucky, Virginia and New York.

He said that each team would play an 84-game schedule, the same as the past season. Each team would play five home games and five away games against the other eight teams for a total of 80 games. The teams in the West Division would meet each other one more time, for 34 games. The East teams would also play each other once more, but leaving them one game short of the 84 scheduled, but Dolph said the East teams' final schedule would be worked out in the future.

Dolph also said a four-man committee had been appointed to discuss the playoff system and would report to him in one week.

Finley Buys

ABA Reports Two Franchises Fall

NEW YORK (AP) — Commissioner Jack Dolph announced Tuesday that the American Basketball Association was dropping its Pittsburgh and Florida franchises and that the Memphis team had been sold to Charles O. Finley.

With the death of the Condors and the Floridians, Dolph said the league would conduct a draft of the players of those two teams later Tuesday.

It also means the ABA will operate with only nine teams next season. Since its inception in 1967, the ABA had been an 11-team league.

Pittsburgh was an original member but played only one season there before moving to Minnesota. After one year in Minnesota, the team returned to Pittsburgh, but financial difficulties caused its eventual downfall.

The Florida franchise began operations in 1968 as the Miami Floridians. The "Miami" was dropped at the beginning of the 1970-71 season.

Dolph said the sale of the Memphis franchise to Finley was subject to the approval of the league's counsel and the more than 4,600 Memphis stockholders.

Finley also owns baseball's Oakland A's of the American League and the California Golden Seals of the National Hockey League.

Dolph said Finley had not made a request to move the Memphis franchise and "I hope he keeps it there." Dolph added that the draft would be done in reverse order of the standings as of the end of the playoffs.

The ABA champion Indiana Pacers would thus have the last selection with Memphis getting the first.

"We have pruned our league to what we call the varsity," said Dolph.

Dolph said the Pittsburgh and Florida franchises had opportunities to move to other cities but the league didn't think it was the best action at the moment. There had been speculation that Pittsburgh would go to New Haven and the Floridians to Montreal.

He said the league didn't want to take back a "weak sister" in case of a merger with the National Basketball Association.

Owner Bill Daniels of the Utah Stars, who is also the ABA president, said there was a substantial amount of money involved in the league's purchase of the two defunct franchises.

"They didn't give us the clubs back for nothing," Daniels said. He didn't announce the amount of money involved.

The Memphis franchise reportedly was close to being dropped. It was learned that a motion had been made and approved for the league to take back the Memphis franchise but just prior to completing such an action, the Memphis team was given an extension and the team's trustees then talked with Finley.

Earlier, Langdon "Zip" Viracola, who had been dickering for three weeks to purchase the money-plagued Pros, withdrew his offer of $1.2 million. Viracola and his partner, Charles Napper Sr., both of Dallas, also had said they would pay a $109,000 debt owed by the Pros to the league.

Viracola, however, also said the league wanted him to pay a $25,000 debt owed by Memphis to the league by a previous owner. Viracola refused. He also said he was not able to receive a guarantee that, if the ABA was dissolved or merged with the NBA—and the Memphis franchise was not retained in a merger—he would be returned his $109,000.

Ned Doyle was the owner of the Floridians for the past two years, while the Condors were owned by Donald J. Bezahler.

Dodgers Drop Cardinals 2-1

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Veteran Manny Mota stole home in the sixth inning and then helped Los Angeles build a vital run with a sacrifice in the eighth as the Dodgers nipped the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1 Tuesday night.

The 34-year-old Mota broke up a scoreless pitching duel between Tommy John, 6-3, and the Cards' Scipio Spinks, 3-3, by singling with one out in the sixth and racing to third on Luis Melendez' two-base error on Bill Buckner's long drive.

Spinks induced Frank Robinson to ground out to Joe Torre at third base but with the count 2-2 on Wes Parker, Mota streaked for home and was halfway there before Spinks went into his motion.

As Mota slid home ahead of catcher Ted Simmons' tag, Buckner raced to third to complete a double steal.

Los Angeles made it 2-0 on Maury Wills' second single. Mota's sacrifice and a single by Bill Buckner off reliever Diego Segui in the eighth before the Cards scored in the eighth.

ORANGE, Calif. (AP) — Harold "Lefty" Phillips, whose 2½ seasons as manager of the California Angels ended last fall in the wake of internal strife, died Monday night of an apparent asthma attack. He was 53.

A veteran scout and coach for the Brooklyn and Los Angeles Dodgers, he was hired by the Angels in May of 1969 after California had won only 11 of its first 39 games that year. Even though the team achieved a 71-91 record that year, things looked bright for the Angels after the 1970 campaign when they won 86 games.

Off-season trades made the Angels pre-season picks prior to the 1971 season but discipline problems revolving around outfielder Alex Johnson, who was eventually suspended, made the team more of a curiosity for its locker room noises.

By season's end, even though California managed to climb to fourth in the American League West, a grand overhaul was made with Phillips stepping down to scout.

His recurring asthma was a constant problem and that was believed the cause of death. A county coroner's autopsy was pending.

With the Dodgers, Phillips signed pitcher Don Drysdale before he was elevated to pitching coach in 1964. He was hired by California as director of player personnel in 1968.

His widow Roberta, a son DeWayne, a daughter Charleen and four grandchildren survive. Funeral services were pending.

Lefty Phillips, former Angels manager, dies.

Leron Lee, Padres Down Chicago, 4-3

CHICAGO (AP) — Leron Lee smashed a two-run homer in the first inning and doubled home another run in the third in leading the San Diego Padres to a 4-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs Tuesday.

Clay Kirby, 4-4, left in the eighth inning after scattering seven hits and allowing only the second earned run in his last 30 1-3 innings.

The Padres, who won at Wrigley Field for the first time since Aug. 18, 1970, got a quick start off Milt Pappas in the first on Jerry Morales' single and Lee's sixth homer. Lee also singled to help build a run in the seventh.

Pappas, recently troubled by a sore right pitching elbow, also was slammed for Lee's run-producing double in the third.

The Padres scored in the seventh against Juan Pizarro.

The Cubs scored in the third after Don Kessinger singled and was forced by Glenn Beckert, who then scored on Billy Williams' double to deep left.

The Cubs added two more runs in the ninth when Williams cracked his eighth homer of the season, knocking in Bill North ahead of him.

May's Home Run Leads Sox, 3-0

NEW YORK (AP) — Carlos May's two-run homer in the eighth inning broke up a pitching duel between Chicago's Wilbur Wood and New York's Mel Stottlemyre and powered the White Sox to a 2-0 victory over the Yankees Tuesday night, their sixth consecutive triumph.

With one out in the eighth, Stottlemyre, 5-8, walked Dick Allen and then May lofted his sixth home run of the season into the lower right field stands.

Wood, meanwhile, handcuffed the Yankees on three hits in posting his 10th victory and fourth shutout. He has lost four times. It was the second straight shutout suffered by the floundering Yankees and third in the last four games.

Wood allowed only three runners past first.

Reds Take Two From Phillies

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati's streaking Reds used tight pitching by Ross Grimsley and Pedro Borbon to top Philadelphia 4-2 Tuesday night, completing a sweep of the two-night doubleheader against the Phillies.

Dennis Menke drove in three runs with a single and triple in the opener as the Reds won the game 4-2.

George Foster staked Grimsley to a 1-0 lead in the second with a solo homer, his second. The Reds made it 2-0 in the fourth on a single by Joe Morgan, his 23rd stolen base of the year and Bobby Tolan's double.

A two-run triple by Tony Perez in the sixth following walks to Morgan and Johnny Bench extended Cincinnati's lead to 4-0.

Bench slugged his 16th homer of the year in the opener as the Reds wiped out an early 3-0 Philadelphia lead.

The score was 4-4 in the seventh when Joe Hayes ripped his second double of the game and Menke followed with a triple, driving in the lead run for the Reds. Dave Concepcion's sacrifice fly scored Menke and the Reds added two more wrapup runs in the eighth.

Open Attraction Is Money, Fame

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI)—That's what I like about the U.S. Open. All the warmth and sentiment it has. Like nothing.

Or as Scrooge said when they asked him what he thought about Christmas—bah, humbug. The truth is that all the entrants in the U.S. Open want to win it for the same reason, and that is to be rich and famous. For those who may have won the U.S. Open before and already are rich and famous, the reason they'd like to win it again is to become even more rich and famous. Billy Casper is one of those who has won it before. Twice, in fact.

The last time he did was six years ago just up the road from here in San Francisco. Everybody remembers that U.S. Open victory by Billy Casper because he came from way back to beat Arnold Palmer who had the thing all wrapped up.

So you'd think Billy Casper would have some mellow memories about coming back to this particular neck of the woods. You'd think he'd be thinking how happy he had been to beat Palmer in the 1968 Open, and eventually everybody else that year, to finish first in money winnings.

So what was Billy Casper thinking as he came back to this neck of the country? "Nothing," he says. "Really nothing."

"You mean you weren't thinking about that U.S. Open in San Francisco at all?" one of the local writers prodded him. That was San Francisco, this is Monterey, he said about the two places which are only 126 miles apart. "Besides, that was a number of years ago."

Billy Casper, who hasn't won anything lately, isn't particularly looking forward to this Open which begins here Thursday. "If you're playing well, you look forward to something like this, but if you don't have a good swing going, you don't," says Casper. "I'm not enthused."

He looks it, too. "How badly have you been playing?" someone else asked Casper. "I played very well for the first 32 holes at Charlotte," he said, "and like a spastic over the last 40."

"What's the trouble?" Billy Casper sighed. "Old age," he said. "How old are you?" "Forty ... one," he answered. Casper won't be 41 for another two weeks so actually he's rushing things a little, but he knows he isn't playing well and like he says, when you're playing that way it's hard to get excited about your chances. "Maybe it's this," a guy who knew him said, pointing to Casper's middle which isn't as flat as it was some time ago. "That isn't it," said Casper. "I was much heavier when I was playing much better."

Over in another corner of the locker room, Chi Chi Rodriguez talked about Jack Nicklaus as he put his clubs into his bag. "He's tough to beat on any course but put him on a course like this, with the rough the way it is, and he's invincible," Rodriguez said.

Chi Chi's locker here is situated only a few feet off the men's room and from there he commands an unobstructed view into the john. "It doesn't bother you, your locker being here?" he was asked. "Nah," he said. "It could be worse."

That's what you have to like about the U.S. Open. All that warmth and sentiment.

Jockey Michael Hole, 32, was born in Canterbury, England.

Stillwell, son of Fighting Illini Faculty Representative Sheldon Stillwell, competed this past season despite a nagging back injury and was one of top dozen vaulters in Illinois. His best performance was 14-6 in the district meet.

"I think a good many of the state's high school trackmen are now considering Illinois," Wright said. "We anticipate that several more will let us know they'll be at Illinois next fall."

Miller, son of former Illini and state high school 440 record-holder Marsh Miller, posted a season best of 1:54.8 this past spring. In the 1932 State High School Meet, his father recorded a record 48.3 in the 440 for Main Township High School and that mark stood for a quarter of a century.

Sheldon, who has shown potential from the 880 through the two-mile, recorded season best times of 9:24.2 in the two-mile and 4:21.2 in the mile the past season.

CHICAGO: Cubs' Glenn Beckert slides home as the ball (arrow) flies to San Diego catcher Pat Corrales in the third inning at Wrigley Field Tuesday afternoon. Beckert was safe to score the first Cub run of the game. Cubs' manager Leo Durocher, coaching at third in the game, and Umpire Shag Crawford watch the play. The run scored on Billy Williams' double. The Padres won the game, 4-3. Durocher was coaching because coach Pete Reiser became ill before the game.

Ashland's Pony Team Organized

ASHLAND — The Ashland Pony League has been organized for the 1972 baseball season, and is a member of the Lincoln Pony League. The Ashland team is in the Western division of the League, which consists of five Beards-town teams, a Virginia team, a Chanderville team and Ashland. The boys that play on the Ashland team are: Brian Duling, Jim Reiser, Marshall Jokisch, Jim Briggs, Randy Lockett, Dwayne Farmer, Walter Johnson, Chuck Harris, Jay Adkins, Wesley Birch, Glenn Klein, Mark Gardner, Raymond East, Rick Hager. This team has played two games thus far. The first game was on June 2 with Beards-town Imperial at Beards-town, in which the Ashland team won 14-9.

Bulls Sold To Bucks Official

CHICAGO (AP) — Owners of the Chicago Bulls of the National Basketball Association announced the sale of the club Tuesday night to Marvin Fischman, vice chairman of the Milwaukee Bucks.

The announcement came following a meeting of the Bulls owners. The sale will be submitted for approval of the NBA owners at their meeting Thursday in White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Fischman spearheaded one group vying for purchase of the Bulls with a Chicago-based group led by Arthur Wirtz, owner of the Chicago Stadium.

It was reported that Fischman's investors were prepared to pay $4 million for the club, while the Wirtz group's bid ranged around $2.5 million. Bulls' owners had been reluctant to discuss any pending deals for the sale ever since wealthy Canadian Peter Graham claimed to have closed a deal to purchase the club.

Blalock Case Set For Hearing In U.S. Court

ATLANTA (AP) — Jane Blalock's counterpunch to her one-year suspension by the Ladies Professional Golf Association, a $5 million lawsuit against the organization, will be heard Wednesday by a federal judge in Atlanta.

Miss Blalock, leading money winner on the 1972 tour when her suit was filed on June 1, alleges violation of antitrust law and seeks a jury trial in the case.

U.S. District Court Judge Charles A. Moyer Jr., who will hear the case, granted on June 2 Miss Blalock's request for permission to compete in LPGA events pending disposition of the lawsuit.

E.M. "Bud" Erickson, LPGA executive director, had announced Miss Blalock's suspension "for actions inconsistent with the code of ethics of the organization" only hours before the suit was filed on her behalf by two New York attorneys.

The 1968 LPGA Rookie of the Year, a 26-year-old blue-eyed blonde from Portsmouth, N.H., returned to her native New England last week and placed second in the $50,000 Eve LPGA tournament at Sutton, Mass. "I was so nervous I could barely see the ball on the first tee," Miss Blalock said after the first round. She won $5,400, lifting her season's total to $38,286 and regaining the money winning lead. Claiming that her suspension would deprive her of her livelihood, Miss Blalock is seeking damages of not less than $1 million—to be trebled as provided by law—plus $1 million for compensatory damages and $1 million for punitive damages. The defendants are the LPGA, its Tournament Players' Corp., its officers, Erickson and Gene McCulliff, tournament director. Erickson said Miss Blalock was fined and placed on probation May 20 when she was disqualified after the second round of the Blue Grass Invitational at Louisville, Ky. He said it stemmed from a violation "of replacing of ball

Torrez Tosses Montreal Over Houston, 5-1

HOUSTON (AP) — Montreal's Mike Torrez pitched a sparkling three-hitter and Mike Jorgensen contributed a two-run home run to give the Expos a 5-1 victory over Houston Tuesday night.

Torrez, off to a good start after a disappointing 1971 season, did not allow a hit until Jimmy Wynn poked a broken bat single to shallow left-center in the sixth inning. After two were out in the eighth, Wynn cracked his eighth homer of the season over the left field fence for the second hit. Torrez, 6-3, also yielded a single to Lee May in the eighth.

Tri-County Boy's League

FRANKLIN — Waverly A and B teams fell to the A and B squads from Franklin in Tri-County League action Tuesday night.

Charlie Colwell hit two doubles and accounted for five runs and Greg McQueen threw a two hit shutout, striking out 13, to lead the Franklin A's to a smashing 16-0 victory. Dennis Whalen hit two doubles and went the distance for the Franklin B's to pace his team to a slim 6-5 count over Waverly. Lowder of Waverly led all hitters with a triple.

The suit says "unidentified informants" complained about Miss Blalock's procedures for marking her ball on the green but that "no such alleged infraction, however, was ever called to plaintiff's attention ... and plaintiff has consistently denied that she knowingly and intentionally took advantage of the LPGA's rules and regulations."

WHA Inks Cut Into NHL Lists

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Bob MacMillan, despite last-second pleas from Emile Francis of the rival National Hockey League New York Rangers, signed a contract Tuesday with the Minnesota Fighting Saints of the World Hockey Association.

Among the signings of the Rangers' No. 1 amateur draft choices, NHL defenseman John Arbour of St. Louis and minor league center Billy Klatt, there were unconfirmed reports that Buffalo's star center Gil Perault would sign with Quebec. MacMillan, brother of Billy MacMillan who is property of NHL's new Atlanta franchise, was the 15th player selected in last week's NHL amateur draft.

"I just talked to Francis just 30 minutes ago," MacMillan said after a Saints' news conference. "He told me I was making a big mistake. But his offer wasn't as much as here. That was it."

The signings of Klatt, a former University of Minnesota star who scored 34 goals and 42 assists for the NHL Boston Bruins' farm team at Oklahoma City this season; Arbour, a big defenseman, and MacMillan brought the Minnesota Saints' total to 11.

Lee Meade, WHA public relations director, said the new league now has 73 signed players with the signing of Vancouver NHL player Ted Taylor with Houston Tuesday.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — John McKenzie, veteran winger of the Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, will be announced Wednesday as play-by-play coach of the Philadelphia Blazers of the new World Hockey Association.

The 34-year-old McKenzie, it was learned, jumped to the Blazers after he was left unprotected by the Bruins last week in the National Hockey League's expansion draft.

Boston left both McKenzie and Eddie Westfall off its protected list, but recalled McKenzie after the expansion Atlanta Flames took Bruins goalie Danny Bouchard. Later, Westfall was drafted by the New York Islanders.

The Blazers now have three "name" players from the NHL. They previously signed goalie Bernie Parent of the Toronto Maple Leafs and Center Andre LaCroix of the Chicago Black Hawks.

LION YORK CAPTAIN NEW YORK (AP) — Mark Etess, a junior from Grossinger, N.Y., will captain the 1973 Columbia University golf team. The economics major plans a career in hotel management. His father is Dr. A. David Etess of the hotel at Grossinger.

Gather For Open

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Gary Player doesn't have a chance. He's healthy. But the gritty little South African was one of the few great players: hale and hearty as golf's walking wounded gathered for the 72nd United States Open Golf Championship.

Lee Trevino just checked out of an El Paso, Tex., hospital. Jack Nicklaus is on the mend from bronchitis. Billy Casper has some back trouble and a heavy cold.

Arnold Palmer peers uncertainly through new, large, round spectacles. Doug Sanders has a cold so bad he can hardly speak. Tony Jacklin admits to being travel weary.

Jim Jamieson, who led for two rounds in last week's IVE Philadelphia Classic, has a sore shoulder. But history indicates that the halt and ailing have a habit of making superior showings in this most prestigious of all the world's championships.

Olin Dutra won the 1934 Open after almost withdrawing because of a severe stomach ailment. Ken Venturi had a doctor walking with him and was suffering from heat prostration when he won in 1964.

Palmer tied Nicklaus in 1962 when he had three stitches in his hand from an accident with a car door. Craig Wood won with an injured back in 1941.

And Ben Hogan took the title in 1950 on shattered, reconstructed legs only 16 months after a near-fatal automobile accident.

So, should the ailing Trevino make it—and he says he will—he has some precedents working for him in his title defense on the picturesque Pebble Beach Golf Links, a 6,815 yard, par 72 layout on the Monterey Peninsula.

The 72-hole test begins Thursday with Nicklaus a heavy favorite and Trevino still a question mark despite assurances he will compete.

The volatile Super Mex, who won a year ago on the first leg of his unprecedented sweep of three national titles, was released from an El Paso, Tex. hospital Tuesday after being hospitalized since Saturday with what doctors described as "the beginnings of pneumonia." He said he planned to fly here Wednesday.

The 32-year-old Nicklaus, winner of the Masters and two other tournaments this year, says he is completely recovered from the flu and bronchitis which forced him to withdraw from the Memphis Open three weeks ago, an event that was scheduled to be his last tune-up for this one.

He has been here for almost a week, honing his awesome talents for the struggle on the course he ranks as one of his favorites in the United States. He won the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am on the same course earlier this year.

He's a heavy favorite, but the Golden Bear is far from overconfident. "No one knows—certainly I

Few Openings Remain For Youth Slo-Pitch

The Jacksonville YMCA, in conjunction with the Amateur Softball Association youth program, this year is instituting a new Slo Pitch Softball program for grade school and junior high members of the YMCA.

The youth leagues this year will consist of five team divisions for grade school boys, grade school girls, junior high boys, and junior high girls, with only YMCA members eligible. The grade the player will be entering in September of 1972 will determine the league playing status. All games are to be played on the YMCA field.

Registrations show a few openings available in all areas. There will be a maximum of 15 players per team. No player will be added after the clinic for your age division. Enroll now at the YMCA. Clinic and team organization dates are as follows: Grade School boys Final clinic, June 19. League play begins June 26. Grade school girls clinic, June 13-20. League play begins June 27. Jr. Hi. boys clinic June 14-21. League play begins June 28. Jr. Hi. girls clinic June 15-22. League play begins June 29.

Chisox Draftees Include Players From Lockport

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox announced Tuesday the signing of four of the club's 1972 summer draft choices, including a hard-hitting outfielder from Lewis College in Lockport, Ill.

Joe Pomykala broke a school record with 59 runs batted in for Lewis last season, and batted .351. The other draftees signed were George Enright, a catcher from Hialeah High School in Hialeah, Fla.; Glen Bryant, who pitched for San Jacinto Junior College in Pasadena, Texas and third baseman Ron Slinger from High Point (N.C.) College.

A White Sox spokesman said the four were to report immediately to the Sarasota, Fla. farm club.

CHICAGO (UPI)—In 1938, Ted Lyons of the Chicago White Sox pitched 42 consecutive innings without allowing a base on balls.

Federal Grant Plan

The Jacksonville Airport Authority Tuesday night approved an agreement with the federal government for a $180,000 grant for construction of a taxiway.

The 4,400-foot strip will be built parallel to the runway. Under present conditions, departing aircraft taxi out on the same runway used by incoming aircraft, causing a situation described by board member Jack Hackett as "something like hoppers."

Local funds of $93,700 earmarked for aviation uses will be matched by the state Department of Aeronautics to provide the rest of the money needed for the $360,000 project.

The Airport Authority has been trying to get federal assistance for the project for the last five years but this is the first time that money has been available.

Hackett said bids will probably be let in mid-July and construction may start by August first.

In other action, the board continued work on replacing services lost when its contract with Bisch Airways was dissolved.

The board approved an agreement with Phil Caruthers, a commercial pilot from Springfield, to provide charter service at the airport. Caruthers will operate a local charter service as well as an air ambulance and air hearse operation.

Caruthers will also give instrument flight instruction.

Since the contract with Bisch was terminated last month, the Airport Authority has bought two aircraft which are used for flight instruction and as rental craft.

Hackett said the transition was progressing well, noting the air time has doubled since Bisch left.

The board voted to advertise for bids on bulk gasoline at the airport. The Fanning Oil Co. has the contract now. The contract will be to furnish 80 and 100 octane gasoline for one year.

The board discussed plans for the Chamber of Commerce stage which will be held at the airport Aug. 17. The board agreed to try to furnish a short air show featuring aerobatic maneuvers.

Hackett said that he was studying plans for a college aviation program at the airport. He said the board should contact MacMurray and Illinois colleges in an attempt to persuade them to make aviation courses a part of their curricula.

Attending the meeting were Jack Hackett, Butch Unken, Jack Ware and David Bone. The board meets at the airport terminal the second Tuesday of each month at 7:30 p.m.

two big health programs, Medicare for the aged and Medicaid for the poor.

Cover for the first time under Medicare a major part of the cost of maintenance prescription drugs needed by chronically ill aged persons.

Extend Medicare health protection to about 1.5 million disabled persons on the Social Security and railroad retirement rolls.

Put into effect a new financing scheme for the welfare programs which would save the states about $2.6 billion in annual costs.

Finance Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., said it will take about three weeks to complete drafting of the several hundred pages of text in the legislation.

This will mean, he said, that the Senate cannot start debate on it until it reconvenes July 17 after the Democratic National Convention.

It appears certain the Senate will revise the 10 per cent general increase on the floor to make it 20 per cent. Well over half of the membership has endorsed the higher figure. The House has voted a 5 per cent boost.

A major floor fight already has been promised over the committee's new Workfare plan affecting families with dependent children.

Families with children all 6 and over, comprising about 1.2 million adults and 3.2 million children, would be made ineligible for welfare and shifted to a Workfare program. The family head, usually a mother, would have to take a job in order to have income.

To finance the Social Security part of the bill, the committee agreed on a new tax schedule which would boost the wage base, now $9,000, to $10,200 effective in 1973. The tax rate, 5.2 per cent this year, would be increased to 5.7 per cent for the worker and employer in 1973-77 and eventually go to 7.4 per cent in 2011 with step increases in between.

Under present law, the rate is scheduled to advance to 5.65 per cent next year.

Colt League

The victors scored in double figures as Winchester and Kiwanis won in Colt League action Tuesday night.

Winchester pounded Waverly 15-3 in a five inning contest. George Lindsey pitched a three-hitter for the winners and Gary Scott hit a double Ray Ratliff led the losers with a triple.

Kiwanis struck for all the runs they needed in the first inning on three hits and four walks to roll by the Lions Club 13-3. Louie Cox picked up the victory allowing only three hits. Kevin Kulish had a double for the winners and Terry Barton hit a home run for Lions.

Robert D. Hamm

As a division vice president Hamm will be responsible for Chamber activities in the field of industrial development, existing industries committee, Retail committee, CACHE and conventions and tourism.

This appointment completes the filling of the four division vice presidents within the Chamber. The four division vice presidents are in charge of economic development, community development, organizational affairs and governmental affairs.

Flood

Scuba divers searched streams and tributaries for bodies and 2,500 National Guardsmen dug in ruins closest to the creeks. Army dogs also were used to seek bodies buried in the tons of mire and silt that rolled through the city late Friday.

Authorities believe some bodies washed far downstream to the Cheyenne River and may never be recovered. The list of missing remained in the hundreds, although officials said many families and friends were being reunited.

The burials were expected to continue for at least a week. A memorial service was scheduled Sunday at a local high school.

Meanwhile, a dozen federal agencies coordinated with the Office of Emergency Preparedness started the recovery phase for Rapid City's 43,000 residents. The Red Cross and Salvation Army have collected thousands of articles of clothing and have issued a plea for cash contributions to enable them to make purchases rather than become involved in transporting clothing and food.

City water service remained off in most areas of Rapid City for the fourth straight day Tuesday.

At the flood site, Gov. Richard S. Kneip said Tuesday he had asked officials at the South Dakota School of Mines for a complete report on cloud-seeding projects last Friday in the Black Hills area.

"From preliminary reports I've received, it would appear the two cloud seedings had no effect on the flood," he said. "However, I have asked for a complete report."

Dr. Richard Schleusener, director of the Institute of Atmospheric Sciences at the South Dakota School of Mines, said the seedings Friday were "separate and distinct" from the storm which triggered the floods.

Schleusener said the rain potential was recognized Friday and led to the decision to conduct cloud-seeding on the plains away from Rapid City. He said the two seeded storms north and south of the city produced only light rain.

The storm which struck the Black Hills and Rapid City deposited 10 inches of rain in some areas.

Schleusener said his department was in contact with the National Weather Service Friday about the decision to seed.

Rapid City's major arteries leading to the vacation areas of the Black Hills were reopened to tourist traffic. Tourism is the state's second largest industry and the major industry in Rapid City. About 3.5 million tourists bring $125 million annually to South Dakota—75 per cent of which is spent in the Black Hills.

City police discovered an incident of criminal damage to property at 2:48 a.m. Tuesday at Salem Lutheran School on East Beecher. They noticed a hole in the glass of a hallway door with the glass inside. There was no entry to the building according to investigating officers.

Palbearers were Richard Swarrington, Kenneth Holmes, Victor Shawndor, Bud Pressey, Clark Palmer and Don Dallas.

Burial was in Bowers cemetery. Conrad Funeral Home was in charge of the arrangements.

Normandy, in France, derived its name from Norsemen who settled there.

First Baptist, Nazarene and Lincoln Avenue were the victors in Church League Slo-Pitch Softball action Tuesday night.

Marshall Sanders hit two home runs to pace Lincoln Avenue team to a 16-5 count over Lynville. Bob Camden hit two triples and Dave Slagle two doubles for the victors. John Heaton and Joe Wilson hit doubles for the losers.

Jim Vaniter hit two homers for Nazarene as it beat Church of Christ 28-14. Wayne Martin also led with three doubles. Steve Ritzer went five for five at the plate, while J. D. Hawk also had five singles.

Big Brothers

The Morgan County Big Brother, Big Sister Association has a new executive secretary, Carol Cutter White, a resident of the city since last August and former social studies practice teacher at Winchester High School. She is the wife of Barton C. White, MacMurray College director of housing.

Carol Cutter White

Mrs. White will maintain an office at the Sherwood Eddy YMCA where records of the Association are kept. The Whites will be residing at 120 East Vandalia Road after July 1st.

Carol Cutter White is a native of Milwaukee, Wisconsin where she graduated from high school and received her BS degree at University of Wisconsin. She later earned an MA from University of Denver in Colorado. Mrs. White received her secondary level teacher certificate this January from MacMurray.

She was a counselor this past school year with the Title III program in District 117.

Her background in the universities dealt with advising, counseling, etc. and when employed in Milwaukee banks worked in interviewing, public relations and research projects.

The executive secretary is presently receiving at her office names of prospective big brothers and big sisters. These will be paired as soon as preliminary screening is completed.

Broberg Tosses Three Hitter, Texas Wins 4-0

ARLINGTON (AP) - Pete Broberg hurled a three-hitter and drove in two runs with a fourth-inning double as the Texas Rangers downed the Milwaukee Brewers 4-0 Tuesday night.

Broberg struck out six and walked two in posting his fifth victory in nine decisions and his second shutout.

The Rangers took a 2-0 lead in the first inning off Milwaukee starter and loser Skip Lockwood, 27, on Dalton Jones' two-run single.

Texas added two more in the fourth on a walk to Larry Blittner, Toby Harrah's single to left and Broberg's opposite-field double to right.

AREA TEACHER REGIONAL JUDGE FOR NCTE AWARDS

The National Council of Teachers of English announces the appointment of Emma Mae Leonard, Illinois College, Jacksonville, as a regional judge in the NCTE Achievement Awards program for 1972. This nationally recognized competition, now in its fifteenth year, cites high school seniors for excellence in English and recommends them to colleges and universities for admission and financial aid.

The National Council of Teachers of English is a professional organization of individual and institutional members at all levels of instruction. NCTE furnishes such teaching aids as books, recordings, literary maps and publishes several professional journals, among them College English and English Journal.

On Senate Floor

Associated Press Writer SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) - Legislation setting up a state lottery received unanimous Democratic support in the Senate Revenue Committee Tuesday and breezed to the floor by a 9-6 vote.

The measure, which already has passed the House, was steadily opposed by each of the committee's six Republicans and a partisan battle is predicted on the Senate floor.

"We're going to have to get at least five Republican votes," Sen. Daniel O'Brien, D-Chicago, told a reporter, speculating that some Democrats will oppose the measure on moral grounds.

Legislative supporters of the lottery bill have said that it will generate $100 million in annual income for the state with half going to finance elementary and secondary education and the rest to be distributed to local governmental bodies.

Opponents have generally based their criticism on either moral grounds—saying it will lead to other forms of legalized gambling—or on the claim that it will harm the poor.

"Passing this bill would be a radical alteration of our traditional American ethical standard," declared Sen. Hudson Sour, R-Peoria, a persistent opponent of the legislation.

A glance at the committee vote indicated that the Democratic leadership has lined up solidly in favor of a lottery but that the Republican leaders have massed against it.

Among the senators giving the legislation their stamp of approval were Majority Leader Cecil Partee of Chicago, and the upper chamber's two assistant majority leaders—Robert Cherry of Chicago and James Donnewald of Breese. Meanwhile, both assistant minority leaders—Terrell Clarke of Western Springs and Robert Coulson of Waukegan—led the Republican opposition.

The legislation's sponsor submitted six amendments which, he said, assured the legislation's constitutionality. All six were approved in the committee without extensive debate.

As drafted by Rep. E.J. "Zeke" Giorgi, D-Rockford, in the House, the lottery bill calls for $100 million in prizes with tickets costing 50 cents apiece. The state would get another $100 million with $25 million left to be used for administration. An accompanying bill provides for $1.5 million to start the lottery. It would subsequently be self-supporting and be administered by a bipartisan commission.

Six states—New York, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and New Jersey—presently have state lotteries. The Giorgi-O'Brien bill is patterned after the New Jersey lottery system.

Most supporters said they voted for the bill because it would provide a new means of generating revenue for the financially pressed schools.

"Either we are going to support our schools, or the threatened closings are going to come," Cherry said, referring to the Chicago school system.

In the same vein, Sen. Daniel Dougherty, D-Chicago, told the committee while explaining his yes vote: "This is a fair method of (generating revenue).... I have some doubts about the morality of it, but sometimes you have to overlook morality of practicality."

The question of morality was central to the negative votes cast by Clarke as he exclaimed that, by establishing a lottery, "the state is going to go into the gambling business."

"There is a world of difference in being neutral to gambling and (being) active in promoting the business," chimed in Sour as he cast another no vote.

Sen. Everett E. Laughlin, R-Freeport, called a state lottery a regressive tax which would do harm to the poor. "This bill will confer benefits on very few persons and incur hardships on countless more," he said.

"If a poor guy wants to buy a chance," he retorted Partee, "he should have the opportunity to do so."

In concluding the debate, O'Brien told the committee he envisioned lottery tickets one day being sold at University of Illinois football games, major-league baseball games and countless other areas.

"We'll make several millionaires in Illinois (by passing this bill)," he declared, "and it would give us the opportunity to help our revenue situation."

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market had trouble making up its mind Tuesday, as it did Monday. Price changes were minor and trading continued at the unimpressive levels of recent sessions.

Brokers said buyers were hesitant after last week's major losses and the market's indecisive performance Monday. Until there is some news development of economic or international significance, they said, investors have little motivation to get into the market.

On the New York Stock Exchange, advances and declines played tag with each other through most of the session. At the close there were 884 declines and 683 advances, with 380 unchanged.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials closed at 938.29, up 1.58.

The Big Board's index of more than 1,300 common stocks closed ahead 26 to 59.66.

Oil stocks were firm in active trading, and some of the metals developed moderate gains.

Most of the other issues, including the glamour contingent, were mixed.

Turnover on the Big Board amounted to 15.72 million shares, compared with 13.39 million Monday.

The Big Board's most active issue was American Airlines, which was off 1 1/4 to 41 1/2 at 495,600 shares—including a block of 452,700 at 40 1/2.

As evidence that institutional investors were more active, block trades of 10,000 shares or more totaled 142 compared with a revised figure of 107 for Monday. Among them were 74,500 shares of Trans World Airlines at 51 1/2. The issue closed at the same figure, off 1/2.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up 1.0 to 326.0.

At the American Stock Exchange the price change index edged up .02 to 27.45.

In the Over-the-Counter market, the NASDAQ composite index was ahead .40 to 130.78.

Turnover at the American Stock Exchange was 3.35 million shares, compared with 3.5 million Monday. There were 478 declines and 421 advances among the 1,191 issues traded.

There were 626 battles, engagements and skirmishes in Mississippi during the Civil War.

Business Leaders Start Telling It As They See It

By DEAN C. MILLER
UPI Business Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—After years of adopting a low, acquiescent profile in terms of its social responsibilities, the business community seems to be taking off the gloves and talking back.

In recent weeks its leaders have started "telling it" as they see it, often in sharp disagreement with views held by government and pressure groups.

On May 11, at the Ford Motor Company's annual meeting in Detroit, Henry Ford II made one of the bluntest statements ever uttered by a businessman.

Getting right to the nub of things, he said, in effect, the business of business is to make money for itself and its shareholders. Ford's exact words were:

"I believe that the social responsibility of the corporation today is fundamentally the same as it has always been: To earn profits for shareholders by serving consumer wants with maximum efficiency. This is not the whole of the matter, but it is the heart of the matter."

Derides Critics

On April 14, in Chicago, Stewart S. Cort, chairman of Bethlehem Steel Corp., derided those who charge steel with neglecting productivity as a "guys who don't know their arithmetic."

He ended that fight-back speech by asking for tax policies that encourage investment, anti-trust policies that permit more plant efficiencies, trade policies that allow steel to compete with government-protected production, such as in Japan, and "rational, realistic" pollution abatement standards coupled with tax policies that help industry meet them.

Speaking in Detroit on May 8 to a meeting of the Society of American Business Writers, John C. Secrest, a vice president at American Motors, said business no longer can afford to be passive if the national interest is to be served.

"I believe," said Secrest, "that industry must ignore the biases and the defenses of the past and, if necessary, approach government on a unilateral basis to outline in specific terms what it can and can't do, while still maintaining healthy, profitable growth."

Too Little Recognition

On May 25, a U.S. Commerce Department official hinted in Washington that the anti-trust laws may have to be changed to salvage U.S. traders. "Some of our businessmen feel that a law designed in 1890 to control domestic 'trusts' makes it difficult for them to compete overseas," said Marjorie Van Gessel. "In our judgment, to date we have given too little recognition to the dynamic role played by our international companies."

Essentially, all these men were asking for more governmental and public consideration of business problems. This, they said, was in the context of national interest i.e. taxes, jobs, shareholder profits.

But it was Ford who really laid it on the line, said what had been whispered in the executive suites until he spoke up.

Corporations, he said in effect, have an obligation to be good citizens but not public service institutions. He contended that business can serve society only if it is profitable, and he countered that philosophy by saying a company can stay profitable only if it is responsive to the needs and values of the society in which it operates.

NEW CROP SOYBEAN, CORN PRICES EASE

CHICAGO (AP) — New crop corn and soybeans future came under selling pressure on the Chicago Board of Trade Tuesday.

Reports that crops planted in recent weeks were in good to excellent condition in many areas of the Midwest influenced the selling.

In both pits, prices eased around 1 cent a bushel but soybeans later recovered.

The new-found strength in soybeans 30 minutes after the opening was attributed to a surge of buying in soybean meal and oil. Meal gained some 60 cents a ton and oil advanced about 5 points.

Corn prices, however, continued along a weak route. Commercial interests were fairly large sellers on the opening and later local professionals turned sellers.

Oats reflected the weakness in corn under mostly commercial selling.

The wheat market was without feature on the opening. Prices were mixed and moved in a fairly tight range.

After about an hour, soybeans were 1/2 cent a bushel lower to 1/4 higher, July 3.50 1/2; wheat was 1/4 to 1/2 higher, July 1.41 1/2; corn was 1/4 to 1/2 lower, July 1.22 1/2 and oats were 1/4 to 1/2 lower, July 69 1/2 cents.

About noon, soybeans were 1 1/2 cents a bushel lower to 1/4 higher, July 3.49 1/2; wheat was 1/4 to 1/2 higher, July 1.41 1/2; corn was 1/4 to 1/2 lower, July 1.22 1/2 and oats were 1/4 to 1/2 lower, July 69 1/2 cents.

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Two factors stand out in an analysis of the list of 10 nominees proposed to represent the public interest on the new board of the New York Stock Exchange:

—The list is made up of extraordinarily busy people.

—Most of the nominees are associated with big business.

The two who have little or no business connections, Jerome H. Holland and Juanita M. Kreps, are involved in jobs that seemingly would occupy them fulltime.

Holland is ambassador to Sweden. Kreps is professor of economics, dean of the women's college and assistant provost at Duke University.

In the past it was often assumed that there was no limit to the number of responsibilities that could be handled by a businessman. "Give a busy man the job and he'll get it done," it was said.

Since the Penn Central debacle, however, when some directors apparently were unaware that the multimillion-dollar transportation company was on a one-way track to financial disaster, there has been considerable rethinking.

Now, it is generally agreed, a director must be involved and knowledgeable about the organization on whose board he serves because it is his responsibility, to stockholders or public, to check on management.

The question arises, therefore, of whether the exchange's public nominees will be able to devote enough time to the public interest. In the past, the board met every week, although only one meeting per month involved policy.

There is little evidence, either, that some nominees have established reputations for anticipating or being sensitive to consumer and small investor interests. Some represent companies that have been targets of consumer groups and ecologists.

There is no representative of any small investor group, such as the National Association of Investment Clubs, even though it is known that the NAIC sought a role.

What all have in common, besides being busy, is considerable ability, which has been shared broadly and often selflessly, frequently without remuneration.

These are some of the outside activities of the nominees as published in the 1972 Standard & Poor's Register:

William M. Batten not only is chairman of J.C. Penney Co., one of the nation's largest merchandisers, but is listed as a director of four other corporations, including American Telephone, First National City Bank and Boeing.

Karl R. Bendetsen, chairman of Champion International, is listed on the board of Westinghouse Electric, the Conference Board, and three industry institutes.

Donald C. Cook, heads American Electric Power Co., which also puts him on the board of 24 electric utility operating companies. He is a director also of four outside corporations.

William C. Greenough, chairman of Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association and College Retirement Equities Fund, is listed as a member or director or trustee of eight other organizations, including the First National City Bank trust board.

Raymond H. Mulford, chairman of Owens-Illinois, Inc., is listed as being involved with a variety of organizations as trustee or director, including the Toledo Museum of Art and Marathon Oil Co.

Cornelius W. Owens, executive vice president of American Telephone, is a trustee of Boston College, vice president of the N.Y. Chamber of Commerce and a director of several other corporations.

James M. Roche, retired General Motors chairman, is associated with 13 organizations. He is a trustee of Holy Cross College and Tuskegee Institute, a director of PepsiCo, a member of the National Business Council.

Robert Sarnoff, RCA Corp. chairman, is director of four subsidiaries, including Random House. He is a director also of Manufacturers Hanover Bank and a member of the visiting committee of the Harvard College Board of Overseers, among others.

Allende Cabinet Resigns In Policy Dispute

SANTIAGO (UPI)—President Salvador Allende's cabinet has resigned in a policy dispute in which Economics Minister Pedro Vuskovic emerged as the storm center.

Jaime Suarez, secretary general of the Marxist government, said the ministers resigned several days ago "to facilitate" a reorganization of Allende's 18-month-old administration.

The resignations followed a series of meetings that began May 28 between the president and leaders of his Popular Unity Coalition, which is dominated by Communists and Socialists.

Political sources said the Socialists and so-called hard-line splinter groups in the government were demanding that Vuskovic stay as economics minister in the new cabinet.

The sources said Communists and moderate groups in coalition were urging Vuskovic's ouster in their campaign to seek a compromise with the opposition Christian Democrat party.

Vuskovic has become the most controversial figure in the 15-member cabinet in his determination to socialize Chile's industries. The Christian Democrats, the nation's largest political bloc, have proposed a constitutional amendment to limit the government's power to nationalize the nation's industries.

The socialists and their allies in government have rejected all overtures so far aimed at a compromise with the Christian Democrats, the sources said. The Communists see concessions as necessary "to consolidate the revolutionary process."

Allende has shuffled his cabinet before in an effort to widen the base of popular support for his administration. The whole cabinet resigned last February but only three new ministers were appointed at the time.

EXTENSION UNIT AT NICHOLS HOME IN WHITE HALL

WHITE HALL — The regular meeting of the White Hall Night Unit of Greene County Home-Maker's Extension service was held Thursday night at the home of Miss Mae Nichols with Mrs. Austin Wiley co-hostess.

Guests included Miss Alice Shepard and Mrs. Duane Birell. Miss Nichols, chairman presided and the meeting opened with the pledge of allegiance.

Mrs. Terry Barnard distributed program booklets for the ensuing year and hostesses, assistants and members to take the lesson at the Home Extension office were secured. The group plans to assist the 4-H club with the members of the White Hall Day Unit during July.

Mrs. Birell, a member of Roodhouse Town and Country Unit, gave the lesson on Food Regulations, Additives and Labeling.

The hostesses served strawberry shortcake a la mode, coffee and iced tea during the social hour.

Dies At 63

CARMEL, Calif. (UPI)—Saul David Alinsky had a simple but radical formula for social reform—upset the power structure.

"Goad them, confuse them, irritate them, and most of all make them live by their own rules," said Alinsky, who rose from the slums of Chicago to become a leading organizer of poor communities.

The self-proclaimed "professional radical" died of a heart attack Monday while walking alone in a downtown section of this coastal community where he was visiting his invalid ex-wife Jean, who suffers from multiple sclerosis.

A passing physician tried to revive the 63-year-old poverty fighter with heart massage, but Alinsky was pronounced dead at the scene.

Jailed during the 1940s while trying to organize a Midwestern slum, Alinsky penned his manifesto "Reveille for Radicals" and gained some notable followers, including Farm Workers Union Leader Cesar Chavez.

In the past two decades, he has criss-crossed the United States organizing poor communities to fight for freedom and equality in work, education and living conditions.

Born in Chicago on Jan. 30, 1909, Alinsky was the only child of Jewish parents who immigrated from Russia. He graduated from Hollywood High School in California and received a doctoral degree in sociology at the University of Chicago.

French philosopher Jacques Maritain once called Alinsky "one of the few really great men of this century."

Alinsky's first wife, Helen, died when attempting to save a drowning child. He was divorced from his second wife, Jean, two years ago, and is survived by his third wife, Irene, and two children from his first marriage, Catherine and David.

Approved on a 19-18 vote was a resolution by Rep. John H. Buchanan Jr., R-Ala., which almost to the word endorsed Nixon's latest peace proposal. It states:

"It is the sense of the Congress that at a time certain, not later than four months following the establishment of an internationally supervised cease-fire throughout Indochina and the return of all American prisoners of war and an accounting of Americans missing in action in Indochina, a complete withdrawal of all American forces from Vietnam shall be accomplished."

The committee did not vote directly on the end-of-war resolution, but rather on Buchanan's proposal.

Democrats had drafted language—going beyond a mere sense of Congress resolution—that would have ordered a total U.S. military withdrawal from Indochina by Oct. 1, subject only to a release of prisoners, an accounting of the missing and the safe departure of remaining American troops.

Before today's closed session of the committee, administration critics had agreed to include a provision to provide a limited ceasefire between U.S. and Communist forces.

They felt their main opposition would come in the form of an amendment by Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., to allow the President to decide what kind of ceasefire he would insist upon.

But as soon as the resolution came before the committee, Buchanan offered his "sense-of-Congress" proposal as a substitute amendment.

It was adopted, 19-18, with 14 Republicans and 5 Democrats supporting it and 16 Democrats and 2 Republicans opposing. The same breakdown occurred moments later when the committee voted on approving the resolution as then amended by Buchanan.

Mayor Lahey Picks Commission Form

Mayor Dan F. Lahey Tuesday morning made his choice known for what he felt was an ideal form of city government to the astonishment of a group of some 25 citizens attending a public meeting sponsored by the League of Women Voters.

Lahey said if he had a choice, he would select the commission form of city government in which four commissioners and a mayor are elected at-large by the public.

Lahey said he felt the election of a commissioner to be solely responsible for one aspect of city government provided the best control.

The Tuesday morning meeting was held at First Presbyterian Church with about 25 people present. It was the second in a series of public meetings sponsored by the League dealing with the various forms of city government.

Mrs. Hugh Beggs presided with Mrs. George Zeigler serving as co-chairman for the session.

Lahey explained the various aspects of the mayor-council form of government under which Jacksonville now operates. He listed five points which he described as some of the defects in the present operation. He indicated that the present form was too complicated for quick change. He cited installation of a stop sign as one example. When the matter is first brought before the council, it must be sent to the proper committee, a decision made there and returned to the council for action over a two-week, or two meeting, period, followed by a ten-day publication period. He said the very least time would be about three weeks for prompt action. "At times, this is too long," he said. He pointed out that the emergency clause could be imposed for prompt action if at least two-thirds of the council could agree. He said the present system of municipal government made it difficult to find a person to seek the office of alderman with adequate knowledge in the field. Lahey said he felt most aldermen made a sincere and honest effort to do a good job.

He also listed as a defect of the system the possible deadlock or friction between various aldermen. He said at times one alderman may be competing with another for special services for his respective ward.

Lahey confessed that "politics" also gets into city government. But he indicated that he felt some type of politics would exist under most any system. Lahey said it was hard to place the blame for whatever happens in city government, "especially if the council limits the power of the mayor."

Lahey paid high tribute to the many boards and commissions appointed by the mayor and council who help make city government work well.

Lahey said in his talks with other mayors who belong to the Central Illinois Mayors' Association the commission form of government would be the best form. He contended that under the commission form of city government, each commissioner is elected to handle a specific function of city government for which he is solely responsible. At the same time, he said, the commissioners and mayor sit together as a council to determine overall city policy. Lahey said he felt this type of government provided the best checks and balances, in his opinion.

Lahey said the council's limitation of his powers "has hampered city government in Jacksonville." He cited an example which happened Monday. Lahey said a line man had been hired for the city without his knowledge. The mayor said he called the utilities superintendent and was told he had "nothing to do with it... the line man was hired by an alderman."

Lahey said he had not yet talked with the alderman in question but would probably get some kind of explanation or "back-passing" excuse. The meetings are designed to inform the public on the good and bad points of various types of municipal government. A similar meeting will be held next Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. at the First Presbyterian Church.

Harry Returns To Courthouse Office Desk

Harry E. Thompson, chairman of the board of county commissioners was back at his courthouse desk Tuesday after an absence of several weeks suffering a broken hip.

Thompson said he was "very happy" to get back to the courthouse even though he was using a walker to move around - slowly. Moving slow is completely foreign to Thompson who is well-known throughout the courthouse as one of the "workhorses" of elected officials.

Harry has, during his tenure of office, been among the first arrivals at the courthouse daily. In addition, he has been known to repair doors, elevators, replace lights in the 50-foot ceiling of the court room and other sundry chores that simply "needed to be done - now."

Harry was pinned between his car, which slipped into gear at the wrong moment, and the garage door casing on his way to work.

He said he was sitting around home trying to think of something to do but had difficulty. He said he tried sleeping on the couch but wasn't sleepy - sitting in the yard but got tired of sitting.

He made up his mind he would return to the courthouse and his doctor agreed it might be "good therapy."

He was last seen talking, laughing, and shuffling through a pile of papers on his desk. Harry is now 30 pounds lighter and appears pleased to get back. He said he would stay in the office until he gets tired, then go home and rest. Welcome back "home" Harry!

Pollution Board Request Sent To Senate Floor

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The Illinois Pollution Control Board's emergency money request to finance the board's operations for the rest of this fiscal year moved to the floor of the Senate Tuesday.

The $165,000 appropriation, already approved by the House, would be used to pay bills for some of the expenses during the last six months and for operations for the remainder of this month.

Dr. David Currie, chairman of the board, testified that the board ran out of money last March because "we didn't expect to have that much business." Hearings by the board were drastically reduced beginning in February.

The bill passed the Senate Appropriation Committee 16-1 with the understanding that it would be reduced to $140,000 in the Senate floor. Currie did not object to the reduction.

Sen. Robert Cherry, D-Chicago, criticized Currie for spending too much money for court reporters. He said the board paid more than $1,000 a day for the reporters. The board, Currie said, has an average of two hearings a day.

AREA SECRETARIES TO ATTEND BOARD MEETING JUNE 17

Representatives from the 26 legal secretaries associations in Illinois will gather at the Holiday Inn in Danville, Illinois, on Saturday, June 17, for a meeting of the Board of Governors of the Illinois Association of Legal Secretaries. They will be hosted by Vermilion county Legal Secretaries Association.

Attending from Cass, Morgan and Scott counties will be William Simmons, president; Margaret Baird, vice-president; Marilyn Hish, governor; Betty Schmitt and Alana Hudgens.

Barbara F. Anderson, state president and member of the Adams county Legal Secretaries Association, will preside at all business sessions. Members will be eagerly discussing the forthcoming National Convention to be held July 16-20, in Boston.

BEARDSTOWN CITY COUNCIL APPROVES BUDGET

BEARDSTOWN — The Beardstown City Council has approved one of the town's biggest budgets of $1,623,326, including $964,451 for Schmitt Memorial hospital and $658,875 for the city proper.

A proposed county wide police plan, which would consolidate the law enforcement groups of all communities in Cass county, has been tabled for further action.

At the last city council meeting Mayor Summey, admitting there are "lots of pros and cons" on the program, said he council has been "stalling long enough on the issue."

However, due to the absence of two aldermen, the council voted to table it for another session.

New Fire Station
Bids will be advertised for the proposed new fire station to be built at 12th and Edwards streets.

The initial work will be for the "shell" only.

Dogs and Cats
A "hot" issue in Beardstown for many years has been the control of dogs, but Alderman Glenn Lauderback says that he is getting complaints from his constituents about cats.

Mayor Summey indicates a new dog catcher will be hired as soon as possible, but nothing thus far has been said about a cat catcher.

Farm Accident Claims Life Of Cass Farmer

CHANDLERVILLE — Lloyd Miller, 64, of rural route Chandlerville, died last Tuesday afternoon in an accident on his farm. The farm is located five miles southeast of Chandlerville.

Mr. Miller was driving his tractor shortly after 6 p.m. when it rolled down a hill and over a 30-foot embankment. The tractor overturned and caught fire, pinning him underneath. Death was attributed to crushing and incineration.

Cass County Sheriff Robert Thompson and Coroner Richard Pugh are investigating. Mr. Pugh stated that Mr. Miller was a diabetic and may have suffered a coma prior to the accident.

Mr. Miller, wife of the deceased, had been gone most of the day and noticed her husband had not come home to eat. She began a search, which led to the discovery of the accident. The remains were taken to the Lintner-Buchanan Funeral Home in Chandlerville.

Further obituary facts and arrangements will be announced later.

Probation For Cass Youth In Narcotics Case

BEARDSTOWN — A 17-year-old Beardstown youth has been admitted to three years probation, with the first 60 days to be spent in the county jail at Virginia. Steve Schnake appeared before Circuit Judge Fred W. Reither on charges of selling a small quantity of heroin to a member of the Illinois Bureau of Investigation.

Schnake was arrested March 17 in connection with a "sale" allegedly made here in February.

Hospital Notes

Three Brown county residents are presently hospitalized. Herbert Gordley of Mt. Sterling and Eloise Patton of Timewell at Schmitt in Beardstown and Ora Long of Mt. Sterling in Culbertson at Rushville.

DRIVER TICKETED AFTER ACCIDENT

Louis R. Gregoire, 30, of Springfield, was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way after a collision at the intersection of North Main and Walnut streets about 1 p.m. Tuesday.

City policemen said the Gregoire auto, which was owned by the U.S. Army, was northbound on Main and hit a westbound car operated by Sara J. Dennis, 24, of 512 E. Morton Ave.

The Dennis car was extensively damaged.

FIREMEN CALLED FOR MINOR ALARMS

Senate Approves Money To Build Statehouse Cafe

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Money to construct a cafeteria in the statehouse basement was approved 35-2 Tuesday in the Illinois Senate. The measure must still pass the House.

The cafeteria which is expected to cost $500,000 is scheduled to be completed in October.

Sen. Donald Carpenter, R-East Moline, the sponsor, said the cafeteria would provide services for the House and Senate members as well as for state employees and capitol visitors.

"What good would it do us?" asked Sen. John L. Knuppel, D-Petersburg, who voted against the measure. "We never recess at the noon hour. We stay here and eat at our desks. The only people who will enjoy it will be the lobbyists."

Walter Autery, Contractor, Dies Suddenly

Walter Autery, 65, of 305 Village Manor, was dead on arrival at Passavant hospital at 8 p.m. Monday. Mr. Autery was a contractor by occupation.

Opens At MacMurray

The 32nd annual session of Illinois Girls State was officially opened Tuesday evening at the first assembly in Annie Merner Chapel on the MacMurray College campus. The 1972 session will run through Monday, June 19. Mrs. J. Stanley Brown, director of Girls State, welcomed the 528 delegates present from all over Illinois, who had each been selected in her own hometown to attend.

Tuesday's activities involved registrations and getting acquainted, followed by party caucuses to elect precinct committeemen, nominations of candidates for city offices and appointment of election judges.

During the assembly, Dr. John J. Wittich, president of MacMurray College, welcomed the girls on behalf of the college. The 1971 Girls State officials were introduced after which the 1971 Governor Denise Williams from Chicago Heights spoke to the newly arrived delegates, describing the program as "fantastic" and "nothing else like it in the world." She urged each one to take advantage of all opportunities and enjoy herself.

Wednesday's schedule includes City Government Night, permanent registration of voters, city election and state central committee election. Jacksonville Mayor Daniel Lahey and Mrs. Peg King, mayor of Tallula, will induct city officials at the 7:30 p.m. assembly in the chapel on the MacMurray campus.

The 7 p.m. assembly, Thursday, June 15, will be the opening session of the House of Representatives. The delegates will discuss and study the General Assembly during the day, and plans for the Party Conventions will get underway.

State and county primary elections will be held Friday morning, June 16. The delegates, divided into the Federalist or Nationalist Parties, will hold their conventions, preceding the general election.

Saturday, June 17 is General Election Day during the evening of which county officials will be inducted and state officials inaugurated.

Lieut. Governor Paul Simon will address the citizens of Girls State on Sunday, June 18, following a 17-year tradition.

Illini Girls State is sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary and regarded as "one of its proudest programs," according to Mrs. Firman E. Henricks of Cerro Gordo, 1971 State Auxiliary president. Mrs. Henricks was a delegate at the first Girls State in 1940 and is serving as official hostess for the 1972 session.

Corn Planting In Illinois 95% Complete

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The State Crop Reporting Service said Tuesday that Illinois corn planting is virtually complete and soybean planting is about 95 per cent complete.

A majority of the reporters said conditions were good for the crop. Corn fields are averaging about 12 inches high. In some soybean fields dry soils are hurting germination.

Soil moisture was reported short by 64 per cent of the respondents.

Mrs. Opal Durr, Pike Resident, Dies Tuesday

PITTSFIELD — Mrs. Opal Margaret Durr, 52, of Pittsfield died at 12:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Illini Hospital in Pittsfield.

Born Aug. 23, 1919 in Mo., she was the daughter of Rev. Frank H. and Ada M. Dammur Byrne. She married Clifford N. Durr Aug. 28, 1937 in Bethel, Mo.

Her husband survives along with one son, Frank Rex Durr of Seattle, Wash.; one daughter, Mrs. Gene (DeLores) Evans of Champaign; and two sisters, Mrs. Albert Emily Berter of Brussels and Mrs. Bruen (Mary Jo) Moore of Palatine.

Also surviving are three grandchildren.

Her parents and one sister preceded in death.

The deceased was a member of the United Methodist church in Pittsfield, where she sang in the choir; Rebekah Lodge of Griggsville; Pike Co. Historical Society; Pittsfield Woman Club; People to People and Pittsfield Home Extension.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at the United Methodist church here with the Rev. Walter Theobald officiating and the Rev. William C. Jones assisting. Burial will be in the Griggville cemetery.

Friends may call after 4 p.m. Wednesday at the Sutter Funeral Home in Pittsfield.

Clayton Fund Scholars Include Area Students

The trustees of the Clayton fund recently announced recipients of scholarship awards offered to children of employees of Anderson, Clayton & Co. through national competition. The Clayton Fund was established and funded by W. L. Clayton, the founder of Anderson, Clayton & Co.

Three of the ten scholarships awarded by the Clayton Fund for the 1972-73 school year were awarded to children of employees of the Jacksonville plant.

Miss Mary Susan Hanley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Hanley, 212 Massey Lane, Jacksonville, received a scholarship upon her graduation from Routt High School and plans to enter Illinois State University to further her study in the field of Special Education. Mr. Hanley, materials manager at the Jacksonville plant, has been employed with Anderson Clayton & Co. since 1952.

Miss Pamela S. Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Turner, Morris, Illinois, was granted a scholarship based upon her scholastic achievements in Northwestern High school, Palmyra. Miss Turner plans to pursue training of a technical nature in the secretarial field. Mr. Turner has been employed with Anderson, Clayton & Co. since 1954.

The third recipient, Miss Janis E. McKean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McKean, Franklin, graduated from Franklin High School and plans to enter Western Illinois University to specialize in Special Education. Mr. McKean has been employed with Anderson, Clayton & Co. since 1952.
